EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1899.

TWO CENTS

VANITY HER DOWNFALL

Mr. Pomerene Severely Scored
Mrs. George.

Wetly Finished His Speech--The Prisoner
Was Occasionally Moved to Tears.
Wetly Declared He Was Not Asking For Mercy For His Client.

CANTON, April 27.—The closing argument in the trial of Mrs. George was in progress when court adjourned. Prosecuting Attorney Pomerene began his argument and may conclude today. It was thought the jury would be charged immediately after the noon recess today. Mrs. George sat with downcast eyes and was occasionally moved to tears as the story of her life was narrated. The courtroom was thronged and many who could not gain admittance stood in the corridors.

Preceding Pomerene's address, Mr. Wetly concluded his speech.

In resuming his argument Mr. Wetly entered upon a vigorous attack upon the testimony of the state, insisting that it was purely a circumstantial case and that many essential features in the chain of circumstances were missing. Probably his most significant statement was that they did not want a recommendation of mercy from the jury in case of a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. He said they did not want mercy from the jury.

Mr. Wetly paid much attention to the question of threats, and one by one he took up each that had been introduced in testimony and described the circumstances under which they had been made. He insisted that all of the evidence regarding threats showed that by the very circumstances under which they were made there was no intention of putting them into execution. Mrs. George was weeping and lamenting when she made them. She loved Saxton. He had won her love and her affection for all time. She was devoted to him and lamented his neglect of her. She had no desire to kill him—it was contrary to all her interests to do so—she wanted to live with him and for him. Even had her motives been mercenary it would not have been wisdom to have killed him, for with him would die claims against him, while so long as he lived she had redress in the courts as a means of securing money relief.

Mr. Wetly insisted that the alibi offered was full and complete, and that it was not at serious variance with the time of various incidents fixed by reputable witnesses for the state. The attorney laid considerable stress on the testimony regarding the darkness of the night and the recognition of people at any distance. He attacked the testimony of the eyewitness, Mrs. Eckroate, on this ground, and also because of her alleged excessive use of opium. Mr. Wetly was scathing in his denunciation of the former police officer who found the revolver offered in evidence, and accused him of scheming for political advantages as well as a reward for the finding of the weapon.

Prosecuting Attorney Pomerene spoke briefly on the legal points involved in the case. He insisted that the extent to which the testimony of one addicted to the opium habit should be excluded was for the jury to decide according to the testimony on the use of the drug, resisting the proposition of the defense that the court should order the jury to ignore the testimony of one so addicted. He insisted that threats should be considered in the line of a motive for the crime, and as proving premeditation and deliberation. In summing up the prosecuting attorney insisted that the jury should not consider the character of Saxton; that if the accused was believed to be guilty, the jury should so find.

He dwelt at some length upon the subsequent result of an acquittal in the face of testimony proving guilt. He insisted that an alibi, attempted and not established, is an evidence of fraud and deception and declared the alibi in this case was not proved. He argued that the accused was not the simple country woman her attorney and represented her, but that she had been carried away by her vanity, her ambition and her desires for which only a rich man could provide her.

He insisted with much vehemence that when she secured a divorce from her husband, she must either have sworn truly to the good grounds for that divorce from her husband or else have falsified to the court, either of which he said was pertinent to this case. He insisted that her language and conduct had not been that of a woman, such as her attorney had represented her to be, and recalled the testimony of witnesses who had sworn that Mrs. George's words were too profane and too obscene to be repeated on the witness stand.

Oil In Guernsey County.

CAMBRIDGE, O., April 27.—Oil has been found here and the excitement is intense. The city is full of oil men from Sistersville, Parkersburg, Pittsburg, Buffalo and Cleveland watching developments. Saturday the well on the Black farm, on the edge of the city, was drilled in and plugged. R. E. Cornelius, who has about two acres of land near the well, was offered $2,000 and an eighth interest from Pittsburg parties.

The well has not yet been shot and will not be until the land has been leased or bought. A stockholder in the company said the well would probably produce from 30 to 50 barrels per day. There is great activity in leases.

Killed by News of Death.

COLUMBUS, April 27.—Sister Hyacinth of St. Mary's of the Springs, died as the result of a shock on hearing of the death of Bishop Watterson. She answered a telephone ring, received the message of the bishop's death, and suffered a paralytic stroke, which proved fatal. Her former name was Mary Nugent, and she belonged to a wealthy New York family.

KAUTZ LETTER ANNOYING.

Feared It Might Have Harmful Effect on Relations With Germany—Portion of What He Wrote.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The publication of Admiral Kautz' letter referring to his position at Samoa caused absolute consternation at the navy and state departments at first reading, but there was soon exhibited a disposition to minimize the affair because it was clearly apparent that the letter was nothing more than a strictly private communication passing between members of the same family. Nevertheless, coming as it did close upon Captain Coghlan's indiscretion, and following the publication of Judge Chambers' letter to his brother criticising the Germans in Samoa, the opinion was held that Admiral Kautz' letter could not have other than a harmful effect upon the relations between the United States and Germany.

The letter was brought to the attention of the president and some sort of a reminder may be sent to the officer to be more careful in his correspondence. In official German quarters the letter was not treated very seriously and there was no indication that the German authorities would take cognizance of it. The impression prevailed that the navy department probably would deal with the indiscretion in such a way as it deserved.

CINCINNATI, April 27.—A letter written by Rear Admiral Kautz to his cousin, Mrs. Charles N. Lindley of Cincinnati, was made public by the recipient. It was dated March 23. In the letter he said in part: "You will probably read a lot of stuff about me in various newspapers, but I can assure you that I am all right and have done nothing that I or my friends may be ashamed of, unless it is the making of a king, which I was obliged to do today. But he is a very inoffensive sort of young fellow, a native 19 years of age. He wears a French admiral's cocked hat, but no shoes or stockings or trousers. Still, considering the torrid weather, he looks very well in this climate. But I hardly think he would look as well on Fourth at Cincinnati. I am not a king here, but just plain 'boss of the ranch.' The German consul had that position up to my arrival, but since then he has been a very silent partner. I am very much afraid he does not like me—in fact, I am not at all popular here with the Germans. But I am all right with the English and hope to pull through with them. I have no doubt of being sustained by the government in all I have done."

Further along in a postscript he said: "P. S.—I was in error about the shoes and trousers of his royal highness. At the last moment his advisers prevailed upon him to put on both just for this occasion only."

CAPT. COGHLAN REPRIMANDED.

A Letter Sent to Him and the Case Considered Closed.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The case of Captain Coghlan may be considered as finally closed. The German ambassador, Dr. Von Holleben, called at the White House and had a conference on the subject with the president of such a satisfactory nature that the matter was regarded as settled. The president explained the course the navy department had taken in administering a reprimand to Captain Coghlan. It was also pointed out that the officer's explanation of the incident stated that his utterances had been much exaggerated. On the part of the ambassador, there was every disposition to deal as lightly with the matter as possible, and not to permit it to become a source of friction.

During the day the navy department administered to Captain Coghlan the reprimand which had been determined upon Tuesday, as stated in these dispatches. This was in the form of a letter from Secretary Long to the officer. It is stated at the department that the letter will not be made public before the officer has received it, and probably not then.

Declared Commanders Were Courteous.

BERLIN, April 27.—With the view of rectifying the reports of discord said to exist between the three naval commanders at Samoa the Norddeutsche Zeitung publishes extracts from the reports of the commander of German warship Falke up to March 23, in which Captain Schoenfelder denied there was trouble between the commanders and said they were courteous to each other.

$100,000 Gift to Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 27.—A friend of Princeton university, whose name was not disclosed, has endowed a new chair to the value of $100,000, to be called the professorship in politics. The first incumbent will be chosen at the June meeting of the board of trustees.

ADVANCE OF LAWTON.

Captured Two Towns and Drove the Rebels.

PART OF CALUMPIT WAS TAKEN.

He Had Fierce Fighting Before the City.
Three Killed and Eleven Wounded.
Rebels Used Artillery—A Transport Reached Manila With More Troops.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The following cablegram was received at the war department:

"MANILA, April 26.

Adjutant General, Washington:

"Lawton at Norzagaray and Angat, his two columns united have driven the enemy to north and west. Slight casualties, names not reported. Only means communication couriers.

"MacArthur has taken portion of Calumpit, south of river. Movement attended with difficulties on account of jungle, heat and strong entrenchments. His casualties yesterday three killed and 11 wounded. Developments thus far satisfactory. OTIS."

MANILA, April 27.—Aguinaldo's army Wednesday was defending Calumpit energetically, which was said to indicate that the rebels were finally making that place their last ditch or stand, which the Americans expected them to make at Malolos. For the first time the Filipinos were employing artillery.

They brought two guns into action in the trenches Wednesday before Calumpit.

pit, firing modern shrapnel, which burst over the heads of General Wheaton's men without effect.

The fighting was resumed about 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

During the night the American engineers repaired the Bagbag bridge, thus enabling our troops to cross the river.

General Wheaton's brigade advanced in extended order with the Kansas regiment to the west of the railroad and the Montana regiment to the east of it and took up a position covering one and a half miles on the south bank of the Rio Grande. On the opposite bank were fortified trenches, from which a few American soldiers would have been able to defy thousands, so strongly were they constructed.

The Americans found the trenches on the south bank of the river deserted, which furnished them with cover from which they could pick off Filipinos whenever one of them showed his head.

When the rebels began firing, two puffs of smoke, simultaneously from each side of the railroad track, showed they were using cannon, which was a genuine surprise to the Americans. Several shells burst close to General Wheaton's staff, but it seemed that the Filipinos failed to master the machinery of modern shells, as they were unable to get the right range.

Young's Utan battery was ordered into position, in the center of the Kansas regiment, to silence the rebel guns, and about 11 o'clock the rapid fire guns had been ferried across the river and came into line.

About noon the rebels were still pouring a heavy fire in the direction of the Americans, who returned it spiritedly. Two Americans were killed and seven were wounded.

At about this time General Hale's brigade was advancing east of the line, apparently to cross the river and attack the rebel trenches in the flank, as the Americans did Tuesday.

General MacArthur secured the order issued by Aguinaldo to the rebel commanders telling them to instruct their men to economize their fire, save the empty shells and not to fire at the enemy when the latter was under cover. The Filipinos were also instructed never to fire at a longer range than 100 meters, and when they had a river or other obstructions in front to hold their fire until within 80 meters.

This order was issued after the recent encounters between the Filipinos and the Americans.

General Lawton was meeting with the greatest obstacles in the character of the country. His troops had had a few skirmishes, resulting in five of his men being wounded. He had been forced to put his men at work building roads, and the transport service was giving much trouble, bullocks dying of the heat and exhaustion and Chinamen having to be employed in pulling some of the carts. Therefore the general had been unable to cover the ground he hoped to cover.

The natives flee before the expedition, but they swarm back to their huts as soon as the American troops have passed.

The Filipino sharpshooters were harassing the American flanks.

The commissary department was preparing to send more rations, under a strong escort, to the front.

The United States transport Zealandia, from San Francisco, March 28, having on board several companies of the Ninth infantry and a large quantity of supplies, arrived here after an uneventful voyage. Her troops were camped on the water front.

The United States transport Sheridan was expected to sail for home today. She will take among her passengers General Charles King and Mrs. Colonel Stotsenberg, conveying her husband's body to the United States. The Sheridan also had on board several officers' families, who found Manila an undesirable residence place.

KRUGER PREPARES FOR WAR

Apparently Expecting Trouble With the British, Who Are Augmenting Their Forces.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Journal printed a dispatch dated Cape Town, April 26, saying in part:

President Kruger's general in chief, Joubert, is inspecting the frontiers and selecting places suitable for entrenchments.

Kruger, as he intimated a month ago, evidently is expecting hostilities with England.

The Dutchmen are uneasy over the result of the petition to Joseph Chamberlain, England's colonial minister, signed by 21,000 English residents in the Transvaal and setting forth their grievances. Chamberlain's action, it is believed, will mark a crisis in English-Dutch relations.

The British army here is being steadily augmented.

DECLARED HOSE NOT GUILTY.

A Colored Bishop on the Recent Lynchings in Georgia.

NEW YORK, April 27.—At the annual conference of the African M. E. church in Jersey City Bishop Walters spoke on the recent burning at the stake of Sam Hose, colored, at Palmetto, Ga. The bishop asserted that the charge of assault, which was put forward in justification of the treatment of Hose, was unfounded and would soon be shown to be false. He warned the whites of the north that if the negroes of the south were not given fair treatment a race war would be precipitated.

Bishop Walters announced that the first Sunday in June would be observed as a day of fasting and prayer to Almighty God for aid in this hour of distress.

WOMEN DISCUSS MISSION WORK.

Fourteen Missionaries Speak For the Cause, at Presbyterian Convention.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—The first day's sessions of the 29th annual assembly of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, meeting in the East Liberty Presbyterian church, were attended by immense audiences.

Perhaps the climax of the day's interest was reached when, during the forenoon session, 14 missionaries from foreign lands were introduced and received an ovation from the 1,000 ladies assembled. At other points the interest was scarcely less intense.

THE MANITOBA BEEF CARGO.

Board of Survey Decides the Government Should Pay For It.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The board convened by a special order to examine into and report upon the responsibility for the loss of 300,000 pounds of refrigerated beef sent to Porto Rico last summer submitted its report and findings. The beef was shipped on the transport Manitoba from Swift & Co. in Chicago and Kansas City.

The board decided that Swift & Co. should be paid for the beef and Secretary Alger so decided.

Beef Court of Inquiry Members All of One Mind.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Wade court of inquiry continued the preparation of its report. The report will unanimously sustain the administration.

Proposed Bicycle Trust.

CLEVELAND, April 27.—There was a strong probability that within a few days nearly 100 of the largest bicycle manufacturing plants in the United States will be under the control and ownership of one gigantic company, capitalized at $50,000,000.

MONUMENT TO GRANT.

Unveiling Occurred In Philadelphia Today.

MISS SARTORIS PULLED THE CORD.

The President and Other Distinguished People Present, Among Them the General's Widow and General Fred Grant. Cruiser Raleigh Fired Salute.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The new monument to the late General Ulysses S. Grant, in Fairmount park, was unveiled this afternoon.

The presidential party arrived over the Pennsylvania railroad about noon. In this distinguished party were the President and Mrs. McKinley, Secretary and Mrs. Gage, Secretary and Mrs. Long, Attorney General Griggs, Secretary Hitchcock, Captain Algernon Sartoris, grandson of General Grant; Assistant Secretary Cortelyou, and other personages of national prominence. Upon their arrival the president and his party were welcomed by a committee of distinguished citizens and, with a detail from the First City troop, as a guard of honor, were escorted to the Hotel Bellevue, where luncheon was served, after which the president took the place of honor in the line of parade to the scene of the unveiling.

When the president reached the monument, and as he alighted from his carriage, the First battalion of the Pennsylvania naval militia, under the command of Captain John S. Muckle, fired the national salute of 21 guns. Battery D of the national guard, commanded by Captain Carpenter, followed with a salute of 17 guns during the unveiling, and simultaneously the Raleigh returned the salute from the Delaware, where she was anchored.

Miss Sartoris, the general's granddaughter, pulled the cord which unveiled the monument. At her side were Mrs. Mary Grant Cramer, sister of General Grant; Lieutenant Alexander Sharp, nephew of Mrs. Grant, and Captain Algernon Sartoris, her brother, who was her personal escort during the ceremonies.

Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant and General Fred Grant were also present.

About 5,000 men of the national guard were in line in the parade, consisting of the First, Second, Third, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth and Twentieth regiments, Batteries C and D, Troops City Cavalry A and B, the crew of the Raleigh and the crews of two other United States warships, marines from League Island, Girard College cadets, Cooper battalion and the cadets from the Pennsylvania Military academy at Chester.

An interesting feature of the exercises was the participation of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, many of whom were with Grant in his most important campaigns. A tribute from China came in the shape of a wreath from the Chinese minister at Washington, which was deposited on the statue after the unveiling. The Chinese naval reserves escorted the wreath to the statue and personally placed it in position.

President McKinley will attend a banquet at the Union League and later in the evening will be present at the meeting at the Academy of Music. Tomorrow the presidential party will pay a visit to the Raleigh, and in the afternoon will return to Washington.

The cruiser Raleigh reached her anchorage off Race street wharf Wednesday. Mayor Ashbridge, the council committee on the unveiling and a number of distinguished citizens met the cruiser below the city and escorted her to the anchorage. A large fleet of steamers followed in the wake, blowing their whistles constantly, to which noise was added the welcome from factory bells and whistles on both sides of the Delaware river. When the procession reached League Island navyyard, the Raleigh fired a salute of 15 guns to Admiral Casey, commandant of the yard, to which the navyyard responded. A brief stop was made, during which the Raleigh's commander went ashore and paid his respects to Admiral Casey and Captain Clarke, captain of the yard.

CAPTAIN HUNT DEAD.

Commander of Battery B of Pittsburg Died of Sickness Contracted During the War.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—Captain Alfred E. Hunt, former commander of Battery B, national guard of Pennsylvania, died at the Hotel Lafayette, Philadelphia, yesterday, aged 44 years. When encamped at Chickamauga park with his battery, during the war with Spain, he became very ill and came to his home in Pittsburg. When his battery was ordered to Porto Rico, although far from well, Captain Hunt went with it, and remained with his command until it was mustered out of service.

Suffering from a complication of diseases, he returned to Pittsburg, but, when advised by his physicians, started for Atlantic City. Soon after reaching Philadelphia he was seized with exhaustion, and, although he was up at times, his condition for the past few days grew worse, until his death yesterday afternoon.

VANITY HER DOWNFALL

Mr. Pomerene Severely Scored Mrs. George.

Wetly Finished His Speech--The Prisoner Was Occasionally Moved to Tears. Wetly Declared He Was Not Asking For Mercy For His Client.

CANTON, April 27.—The closing argument in the trial of Mrs. George was in progress when court adjourned. Prosecuting Attorney Pomerene began his argument and may conclude today. It was thought the jury would be charged immediately after the noon recess today. Mrs. George sat with downcast eyes and was occasionally moved to tears as the story of her life was narrated. The courtroom was thronged and many who could not gain admittance stood in the corridors.

In resuming his argument Mr. Wetly entered upon a vigorous attack upon the testimony of the state, insisting that it was purely a circumstantial case and that many essential features in the chain of circumstances were missing. Probably his most significant statement was that they did not want a recommendation of mercy from the jury in case of a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. He said they did not want mercy from the jury.

Mr. Wetly paid much attention to the question of threats, and one by one he took up each that had been introduced in testimony and described the circumstances under which they had been made. He insisted that all of the evidence regarding threats showed that by the very circumstances under which they were made there was no intention of putting them into execution. Mrs. George was weeping and lamenting when she made them. She loved Saxton. He had won her love and her affection for all time. She was devoted to him and lamented his neglect of her. She had no desire to kill him—it was contrary to all her interests to do so—she wanted to live with him and for him. Even had her motives been mercenary it would not have been wisdom to have killed him, for with him would die claims against him, while so long as he lived she had redress in the courts as a means of securing money relief.

Mr. Wetly insisted that the alibi offered was full and complete, and that it was not at serious variance with the time of various incidents fixed by reputable witnesses for the state. The attorney laid considerable stress on the testimony regarding the darkness of the night and the recognition of people at any distance. He attacked the testimony of the eyewitness, Mrs. Eckroate, on this ground, and also because of her alleged excessive use of opium. Mr. Wetly was scathing in his denunciation of the former police officer who found the revolver offered in evidence, and accused him of scheming for political advantages as well as a reward for the finding of the weapon.

Prosecuting Attorney Pomerene spoke briefly on the legal points involved in the case. He insisted that the extent to which the testimony of one addicted to the opium habit should be excluded was for the jury to decide according to the testimony on the use of the drug, resisting the proposition of the defense that the court should order the jury to ignore the testimony of one so addicted. He insisted that threats should be considered in the line of a motive for the crime, and as proving premeditation and deliberation. In summing up the prosecuting attorney insisted that the jury should not consider the character of Saxton; that if the accused was believed to be guilty, the jury should so find.

He dwelt at some length upon the subsequent result of an acquittal in the face of testimony proving guilt. He insisted that an alibi, attempted and not established, is an evidence of fraud and deception and declared the alibi in this case was not proved. He argued that the accused was not the simple country woman her attorney and represented her, but that she had been carried away by her vanity, her ambition and her desires for which only a rich man could provide her.

He insisted with much vehemence that when she secured a divorce from her husband, she must either have sworn truly to the good grounds for that divorce from her husband or else have falsified to the court, either of which he said was pertinent to this case. He insisted that her language and conduct had not been that of a woman, such as her attorney had represented her to be, and recalled the testimony of witnesses who had sworn that Mrs. George's words were too profane and too obscene to be repeated on the witness stand.

CAPT. COGHLAN REPRIMANDED.

A Letter Sent to Him and the Case Considered Closed.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The case of Captain Coghlan may be considered as finally closed. The German ambassador, Dr. Von Holleben, called at the White House and had a conference on the subject with the president of such a satisfactory nature that the matter was regarded as settled. During the day the navy department administered to Captain Coghlan the reprimand which had been determined upon Tuesday, as stated in these dispatches. This was in the form of a letter from Secretary Long to the officer. It is stated at the department that the letter will not be made public before the officer has received it, and probably not then.

The Filipinos were also instructed never to fire at a longer range than 100 meters, and when they had a river or other obstructions in front to hold their fire until within 80 meters.

This order was issued after the recent encounters between the Filipinos and the Americans.

General Lawton was meeting with the greatest obstacles in the character of the country. His troops had had a few skirmishes, resulting in five of his men being wounded. He had been forced to put his men at work building roads, and the transport service was giving much trouble, bullocks dying of the heat and exhaustion and Chinamen having to be employed in pulling some of the carts. Therefore the general had been unable to cover the ground he hoped to cover.

The natives flee before the expedition, but they swarm back to their huts as soon as the American troops have passed.

The Filipino sharpshooters were harassing the American flanks.

The commissary department was preparing to send more rations, under a strong escort, to the front.

The United States transport Zealandia, from San Francisco, March 28, having on board several companies of the Ninth infantry and a large quantity of supplies, arrived here after an uneventful voyage. Her troops were camped on the water front.

The United States transport Sheridan was expected to sail for home today. She will take among her passengers General Charles King and Mrs. Colonel Stotsenberg, conveying her husband's body to the United States. The Sheridan also had on board several officers' families, who found Manila an undesirable residence place.

KRUGER PREPARES FOR WAR

Apparently Expecting Trouble With the British, Who Are Augmenting Their Forces.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Journal printed a dispatch dated Cape Town, April 26, saying in part:

President Kruger's general in chief, Joubert, is inspecting the frontiers and selecting places suitable for entrenchments.

Kruger, as he intimated a month ago, evidently is expecting hostilities with England.

The Dutchmen are uneasy over the result of the petition to Joseph Chamberlain, England's colonial minister, signed by 21,000 English residents in the Transvaal and setting forth their grievances. Chamberlain's action, it is believed, will mark a crisis in English-Dutch relations.

The British army here is being steadily augmented.

DECLARED HOSE NOT GUILTY.

A Colored Bishop on the Recent Lynchings In Georgia.

NEW YORK, April 27.—At the annual conference of the African M. E. church in Jersey City Bishop Walters spoke on the recent burning at the stake of Sam Hose, colored, at Palmetto, Ga. The bishop asserted that the charge of assault, which was put forward in justification of the treatment of Hose, was unfounded and would soon be shown to be false. He warned the whites of the north that if the negroes of the south were not given fair treatment a race war would be precipitated.

Bishop Walters announced that the first Sunday in June would be observed as a day of fasting and prayer to Almighty God for aid in this hour of distress.

WOMEN DISCUSS MISSION WORK.

Fourteen Missionaries Speak For the Cause, at Presbyterian Convention.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—The first day's sessions of the 29th annual assembly of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, meeting in the East Liberty Presbyterian church, were attended by immense audiences.

Perhaps the climax of the day's interest was reached when, during the forenoon session, 14 missionaries from foreign lands were introduced and received an ovation from the 1,000 ladies assembled. At other points the interest was scarcely less intense.

THE MANITOBA BEEF CARGO.

Board of Survey Decides the Government Should Pay For It.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The board convened by a special order to examine into and report upon the responsibility for the loss of 300,000 pounds of refrigerated beef sent to Porto Rico last summer submitted its report and findings. The beef was shipped on the transport Manitoba from Swift & Co. in Chicago and Kansas City.

The board decided that Swift & Co. should be paid for the beef and Secretary Alger so decided.

MONUMENT TO GRANT.

Unveiling Occurred In Philadelphia Today.

MISS SARTORIS PULLED THE CORD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The new monument to the late General Ulysses S. Grant, in Fairmount park, was unveiled this afternoon.

The presidential party arrived over the Pennsylvania railroad about noon. In this distinguished party were the President and Mrs. McKinley, Secretary and Mrs. Gage, Secretary and Mrs. Long, Attorney General Griggs, Secretary Hitchcock, Captain Algernon Sartoris, grandson of General Grant; Assistant Secretary Cortelyou, and other personages of national prominence. Upon their arrival the president and his party were welcomed by a committee of distinguished citizens and, with a detail from the First City troop, as a guard of honor, were escorted to the Hotel Bellevue, where luncheon was served, after which the president took the place of honor in the line of parade to the scene of the unveiling.

When the president reached the monument, and as he alighted from his carriage, the First battalion of the Pennsylvania naval militia, under the command of Captain John S. Muckle, fired the national salute of 21 guns. Battery D of the national guard, commanded by Captain Carpenter, followed with a salute of 17 guns during the unveiling, and simultaneously the Raleigh returned the salute from the Delaware, where she was anchored.

Miss Sartoris, the general's granddaughter, pulled the cord which unveiled the monument. At her side were Mrs. Mary Grant Cramer, sister of General Grant; Lieutenant Alexander Sharp, nephew of Mrs. Grant, and Captain Algernon Sartoris, her brother, who was her personal escort during the ceremonies.

Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant and General Fred Grant were also present.

About 5,000 men of the national guard were in line in the parade, consisting of the First, Second, Third, Sixth, Ninth and Twentieth regiments, Batteries C and D, Troops City Cavalry A and B, the crew of the Raleigh and the crews of two other United States warships, marines from League Island, Girard College cadets, Cooper battalion and the cadets from the Pennsylvania Military academy at Chester.

An interesting feature of the exercises was the participation of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, many of whom were with Grant in his most important campaigns. A tribute from China came in the shape of a wreath from the Chinese minister at Washington, which was deposited on the statue after the unveiling. The Chinese naval reserves escorted the wreath to the statue and personally placed it in position.

President McKinley will attend a banquet at the Union League and later in the evening will be present at the meeting at the Academy of Music. Tomorrow the presidential party will pay a visit to the Raleigh, and in the afternoon will return to Washington.

The cruiser Raleigh reached her anchorage off Race street wharf Wednesday. Mayor Ashbridge, the council committee on the unveiling and a number of distinguished citizens met the cruiser below the city and escorted her to the anchorage. A large fleet of steamers followed in the wake, blowing their whistles constantly, to which noise was added the welcome from factory bells and whistles on both sides of the Delaware river. When the procession reached League Island navyyard, the Raleigh fired a salute of 15 guns to Admiral Casey, commandant of the yard, to which the navyyard responded. A brief stop was made, during which the Raleigh's commander went ashore and paid his respects to Admiral Casey and Captain Clarke, captain of the yard.

CAPTAIN HUNT DEAD.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—Captain Alfred E. Hunt, former commander of Battery B, national guard of Pennsylvania, died at the Hotel Lafayette, Philadelphia, yesterday, aged 44 years. When encamped at Chickamauga park with his battery, during the war with Spain, he became very ill and came to his home in Pittsburg. When his battery was ordered to Porto Rico, although far from well, Captain Hunt went with it, and remained with his command until it was mustered out of service.

Suffering from a complication of diseases, he returned to Pittsburg, but, when advised by his physicians, started for Atlantic City. Soon after reaching Philadelphia he was seized with exhaustion, and, although he was up at times, his condition for the past few days grew worse, until his death yesterday afternoon.

THE EAST END.

THE NEW GLASS PLANT

The Promoters Are Making Rapid Progress.

THINKING ABOUT THE SITE

Real Estate Men Are Rushed With Orders For Houses and Cannot Begin to Fill the Demand--Work at the Brick Plant--Working on a Main.

Before Saturday evening it will be known whether the proposed glass factory will be located in the East End or some other part of the city.

During the past few days the promoters of the project have received offers of several locations, but where these locations are is not being made known at least for the present. Yesterday afternoon it was learned that the Harker site met with the most favor, but whether this will be the site selected none of the promoters will say. The work of soliciting funds for the new concern is progressing favorably, and more than one-half of the desired amount has been subscribed. With a few more weeks' work it is said enough money will have been subscribed to commence work on the buildings.

Could Rent Fifty Houses.

"If East End had 50 vacant houses at the present time I could rent them all at a high figure," said a prominent resident of that district last evening. The assertion was no doubt correct, as yesterday it was impossible to rent a house in any part of the district. During the day many strangers, some from Wells-ville and Liverpool proper, spent some time looking for a vacant house, but none were to be had. The houses now being erected will be occupied by those who own them, and few if any are being built for rental. There is a growing desire among some of the people living in the city to reside in that part of town, and until more houses are built that desire will not decrease.

Awaiting Developments.

The making of brick at the brick yard was commenced this morning. The force of employes has been decreased two men on account of several of the former workmen securing other positions. Joseph Johnson when asked yesterday if new machinery would be added to the plant, said he could not say anything at the present time on the matter, and the best thing to do under the circumstances was to await developments.

Lost a Wheel.

Aaron McDonald was driving a wagon loaded with lumber to this part of the city yesterday afternoon when one of the wheels came off, causing the lumber to fall on the roadway. A new wheel was secured and matters righted within a short time.

Running Full Time.

The plant of the French China company at present is rushed with orders, and not less than a car of ware is packed every day. Since the plant was started there has always been a large number of orders on hand.

Shipped Two Cars.

The Knowles, Taylor & Anderson company yesterday shipped two cars of pipe to Rabway, N. J. The yards are about emptied of No. 1 goods, and unless the plant resumes operations soon it will be impossible to get any pipe of some sizes.

Lowering a Main.

The water main in Pennsylvania avenue near the culvert is being lowered several feet. Five men are working on the improvement, and will have it completed by tomorrow.

Moved a Derrick.

The derrick that has stood in Pennsylvania avenue since work on the culvert was commenced, was lowered yesterday and removed to the stone quarry of Contractor Schmelzenbach.

Nearing Completion.

The new residence being erected in Erie street by James Fulton, is nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy within a few weeks.

Is Recovering.

Lincoln Harker, who has been ill for several months, is recovering rapidly.

Will Entertain.

At the meeting of the Junior Mechanics to be held this evening one candidate living in East End will be initiated. After the regular business has been transacted the social committee will entertain the council.

EXPENDITURE OF MONEY.

How the Taxpayers' Money Must Be Expended.

For the benefit of the public at large, and for the purpose of giving much needed information to some members of council, the NEWS REVIEW publishes section 14, page 39, of the city ordinances as follows:

"No money shall be appropriated, except by ordinance. All ordinances appropriating money shall receive the approval of the finance committee before passage. All ordinances presented, appropriating money without said approval, shall be referred, without debate, to the finance committee, unless this rule is temporarily suspended by the concurrence of three-fourths of all the members, and a vote on such suspension shall be taken by calling the yeas and nays and entering the same on the journal."

BOXING GLOVES

Failed to Settle the Dispute of Two Well Known Men.

Yesterday afternoon two well known young men of the city engaged in a dispute as to who could use the gloves successfully against the other.

They decided to settle their difficulties at once, and after purchasing a set of boxing gloves they repaired with a number of friends to a spacious room. A referee and timekeeper were selected, and the fun commenced. Neither of the men exhibited much science, but they punched hard and fast, and furnished much amusement for the spectators. After they had sparred for three rounds both men were worn out, and the bout was declared off without any decision being given.

DIRTY STREETS

Are Caused by Teamsters Who Do Not Use Tight Wagons.

Yesterday afternoon a wagon loaded with sand was drawn along Fifth street, and it left a row of sand in its trail, while another wagon loaded with flint left marks to show that it had passed through the streets. Scarcely a day passes that stones and rubbish are not dropped in the streets, and under the circumstances it is almost impossible for Street Commissioner Bryan to keep the streets clean.

THE GEON CASE

Will Be Heard Tomorrow Afternoon by Mayor Bough.

The case against Joseph W. Geon, for violating the Sunday screen ordinance, which has been postponed several times, will be heard tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by Mayor Bough.

The preliminary motion in the case have been argued, and it will not take long to hear the testimony as there will be only three witnesses to examine. It is probable the case will go to common pleas court if the decision is against Geon.

THE SAME LIST

Will Be Presented to Council by Mayor Bough.

When Mayor Bough was asked if he would present the list of police appointments at the next meeting of council that he had prepared for the last session, he said:

"I see no reason why the list should be changed, and I would have done something in the matter Tuesday night had not the hour been so late when council adjourned. Yes, it is probable I will present the list at the next meeting."

WORKING LATE.

The Pony Crew Have All the Work They Can Do.

Crockery shipments are increasing, and the general freight business of the city has reached such proportions that the pony crew have all they can do to keep even with the task allotted each day.

Monday night it was 8:30 o'clock when the engine returned to Wells-ville, while Tuesday night it was 7 o'clock before the work was finished. The rush is expected to continue for some time.

GUAM'S NEW GOVERNOR

Captain Richard P. Leary's Experience In Samoa.

The Bluff Fighting Marylander Figures Conspicuously In the Noted Author's History of Samoa--New Governor Will Be Stationed at Agaña, Capital of Guam.

Ahead of the new governor of Guam is the most picturesque duty that the war has created for any officer. The new governor is an old hand at jobs like this, for he is Captain Richard P. Leary, United States navy, the bluff and ready officer who commanded the United States steamship Adams at Samoa ten years ago and figures conspicuously in one of Robert Louis Stevenson's most entertaining stories. During the year or so he was at Samoa Leary was perpetually on the edge of a fight, for the times were warlike, and it is said that more than once he had the guns aimed to shoot. The situation was almost exactly the same as that which exists at present. The Germans, then as now, clashed with the British and Americans, and Captain Leary more than once had to call them down hard.

It is a picturesque picture that Stevenson drew of the bluff, hearty, jolly fighting Leary. Leary is a Marylander by birth, but is Irish in his humor and in his fighting qualities. Stevenson found him to be the most interesting type of officer who appeared at Samoa while he lived there, and he never tired writing about him. Many pages of his book, "A Footnote of History," are devoted to Leary, and the humor of them is only surpassed by their subject. Samoa and Stevenson appreciated

Captain Leary took the Adams to Samoa in 1888 at the time of the war between Tamasese and Malietoa. There were not many American citizens there to be protected, but what few there were Leary was determined should not suffer. If he had had the mighty Oregon instead of the little, inconsequent Adams, Leary could not have been more independent. He was far outmatched by the German naval force, but he did not allow that consideration to stir him, and when it seemed that there might be a conflict between him and the Germans he was more defiant than ever. Stevenson has pointed out that the situation demanded a humorist, and Leary, besides being a splendid naval officer, is a born humorist. Stevenson says that in everything the bluff American officer did the humorist was apparent, and whether it was a proclamation or an ultimatum, the humor was always there.

There was constant talk of bombardment, and Captain Leary did his share of it. Stevenson says that a very salutary habit that Leary had was to drop a hint here and there about a bombardment that he was going to bring off on the morrow if such and such a thing were not done, and, lo! the next day it was done. Stevenson tells with a great deal of pleasantry, and no doubt with a generous play of fancy, of one of these threatened bombardments--the one that came nearer to materialization than any of the rest. Stevenson made Leary out to be a man who went stalking about looking for a fight--an exaggeration based no doubt upon Leary's prompt and decisive style of doing things--and he says that Leary would go without his breakfast if there was a chance of a good scrap.

One night some rebel bullets struck the house of a half caste who claimed American citizenship, and without the loss of a minute Leary took the matter up. Stevenson, more in the spirit of the romancer than the historian, says that the American's pigs were endangered by the shots and that Captain Leary ran up the American flag over the house and let fall many thrilling hints of a bombardment which he was about to indulge in. Small as this incident was, Leary went to the bottom of it, and he got complete satisfaction. He had scores like it to handle.

The ordinary diplomatic interchange was not worth a cent to achieve the purpose that Leary was there for, and he realized it. He went about his work with an originality that at least kept the Germans and the troublesome rebels in a careful attitude. Leary won a reputation for his remarkable activity in Samoa. He had an eye for everything that was going on. His fearlessness amounted almost to recklessness, according to Stevenson's account of him. His striking personality piqued this great writer's fancy and he has handed him down to literature as one of his most interesting characters. In Stevenson's engrossing tale of the seven years of trouble in Samoa the bluff naval officer who is to govern Guam stands out a pleasing figure in the curious setting of Samoan war scenes.

Captain Leary is going to Guam in true governor's style. He has fitted out what he calls a "whaling big ship"--the cruiser Yosemite--to take him, and the governor's cabin is as luxurious as any Pacific island potentate could wish. The Yosemite is to be stationed at Guam, and Governor Leary may live aboard if he chooses. Captain Leary is anxious to find out a little more about Guam society before he decides how and where he will live. The Yosemite is an immense vessel, with room enough for Guam's government and Guam's navy, and she has a supply of five inch guns and six pounders that will more than answer every purpose. She is commanded by Captain George E. Ide, and she will take to Guam, besides her regular crew, 125 marines.

What is known about Guam would hardly fill a half column of a newspaper, and one of the things the Yosemite will do will be to make a survey of the island. Governor Leary will be stationed at Agaña, the capital of Guam, a town of some 6,000 inhabitants, and he is wondering just how lively he will find his job. His year's experience at Samoa will be anything but a disadvantage to him, and as the first American governor of Guam he is expected to make such a favorable impression upon the Guamites that there will be no trouble at all in the way of uprisings. In case there is any trouble Governor Leary will have his marines with him and the big Yosemite out in the bay. He will have about 2,000 subjects to control, and the problems of government will be new and unique. He has sufficient latitude to deal with the questions that arise in his own original way.--New York Sun

NEW ANECDOTE OF DEWEY.

Touching Incident Related by One of the Returned Sailors.

"The most affecting incident which occurred and which all of the sailors will remember through their lives, was the action of a powder boy. These boys act as aids to captains and lieutenants in carrying messages and doing errands. When the order was given to strip for action, one of the boys tore his coat off hurriedly, and it fell from his hands and went over the rail, down into the bay. A few moments before he had been gazing on his mother's photograph and just before he took his coat off he had kissed the picture and put it in his inside pocket. When the coat fell overboard, he turned to the captain and asked permission to jump over and get it. Naturally the request was refused. The boy then went to the other side of the ship and climbed down the ladder. He swam around to the place where the coat had dropped and succeeded in getting it. I believe it was still floating when he got there. When he came back, he was ordered in chains for disobedience. After the battle he was tried by a court martial for disobedience and found guilty. Commodore Dewey became interested in the case, for he could not understand why the boy had risked his life and disobeyed orders for a coat. The lad had never told what his motives were. But when the commodore talked to him in a kindly way and asked him why he had done such strange things for an old coat, he broke into tears and told the commodore that his mother's picture was in the coat. Commodore Dewey's eyes filled with tears as he listened to the story. Then he picked the boy up in his arms and embraced him. He ordered the little fellow to be instantly released and pardoned. 'Boys who love their mothers enough to risk their lives for her picture cannot be kept in irons on this fleet,' he said.

"Just before the action the boys all exchanged keepsakes and intrusted numerous packages to each other to send to their homes in case they were killed in action. One of the misfortunes on the Boston was the great scarcity of tobacco the morning of the battle. Almost all the sailors were out of the weed. But one man had over a pound, and he divided it in equal lots among his companions, keeping only the regular share for himself."--New York Journal

The Bluff Fighting Marylander Figures Conspicuously in the Noted Author's History of Samoa—New Governor Will Be Stationed at Agaña, Capital of Guam.

Ahead of the new governor of Guam is the most picturesque duty that the war has created for any officer. The new governor is an old hand at jobs like this, for he is Captain Richard P. Leary, United States navy, the bluff and ready officer who commanded the United States steamship Adams at Samoa ten years ago and figures conspicuously in one of Robert Louis Stevenson's most entertaining stories. During the year or so he was at Samoa Leary was perpetually on the edge of a fight, for the times were warlike, and it is said that more than once he had the guns aimed to shoot. The situation was almost exactly the same as that which exists at present. The Germans, then as now, clashed with the British and Americans, and Captain Leary more than once had to call them down hard.

It is a picturesque picture that Stevenson drew of the bluff, hearty, jolly fighting Leary. Leary is a Marylander by birth, but is Irish in his humor and in his fighting qualities. Stevenson found him to be the most interesting type of officer who appeared at Samoa while he lived there, and he never tired writing about him. Many pages of his book, "A Footnote of History," are devoted to Leary, and the humor of them is only surpassed by their subject. Samoa and Stevenson appreciated

Captain Leary took the Adams to Samoa in 1888 at the time of the war between Tamasee and Malietoa. There were not many American citizens there to be protected, but what few there were Leary was determined should not suffer. If he had had the mighty Oregon instead of the little, inconsequent Adams, Leary could not have been more independent. He was far outmatched by the German naval force, but he did not allow that consideration to stir him, and when it seemed that there might be a conflict between him and the Germans he was more defiant than ever. Stevenson has pointed out that the situation demanded a humorist, and Leary, besides being a splendid naval officer, is a born humorist. Stevenson says that in everything the bluff American officer did the humorist was apparent, and whether it was a proclamation or an ultimatum, the humor was always there.

There was constant talk of bombardment, and Captain Leary did his share of it. Stevenson says that a very salutary habit that Leary had was to drop a hint here and there about a bombardment that he was going to bring off on the morrow if such and such a thing were not done, and, lo! the next day it was done. Stevenson tells with a great deal of relish, and no doubt with a generous play of fancy, of one of these threatened bombardments—the one that came nearer to materialization than any of the rest. Stevenson made Leary out to be a man who went stalking about looking for a fight—an exaggeration based on no doubt upon Leary's prompt and decisive style of doing things—and he says that Leary would go without his breakfast if there was a chance of a good scrap.

One night some rebel bullets struck the house of a half caste who claimed American citizenship, and without the loss of a minute Leary took the matter up. Stevenson, more in the spirit of the romancer than the historian, says that the American's pigs were endangered by the shots and that Captain Leary ran up the American flag over the house and let fall many thrilling hints of a bombardment which he was about to indulge in. Small as this incident was, Leary went to the bottom of it, and he

The ordinary diplomatic interchange was not worth a cent to achieve the purpose that Leary was there for, and he realized it. He went about his work with an originality that at least kept the Germans and the troublesome rebels in a careful attitude. Leary won a reputation for his remarkable activity in Samoa. He had an eye for everything that was going on. His fearlessness amounted almost to recklessness, according to Stevenson's account of him. His striking personality piqued this great writer's fancy and he has handed him down to literature as one of his most interesting characters. In Stevenson's engrossing tale of the seven years of trouble in Samoa the bluff naval officer who is to govern Guam stands out a pleasing figure in the curious setting of Samoan war scenes.

Captain Leary is going to Guam in true governor's style. He has fitted out what he calls a "whaling big ship"—the cruiser Yosemite—to take him, and the governor's cabin is as luxurious as any Pacific island potentate could wish. The Yosemite is to be stationed at Guam, and Governor Leary may live aboard if he chooses. Captain Leary is anxious to find out a little more about Guam society before he decides how and where he will live. The Yosemite is an immense vessel, with room enough for Guam's government and Guam's navy, and she has a supply of five inch guns and six pounders that will more than answer every purpose. She is commanded by Captain George E. Ide, and she will take to Guam, besides her regular crew, 125 marines.

What is known about Guam would hardly fill a half column of a newspaper, and one of the things the Yosemite will do will be to make a survey of the island. Governor Leary will be stationed at Agaña, the capital of Guam, a town of some 6,000 inhabitants, and he is wondering just how lively he will find his job. His year's experience at Samoa will be anything but a disadvantage to him, and as the first American governor of Guam is expected to make such a favorable impression upon the Guamanians that there will be no trouble at all in the way of uprisings. In case there is any trouble Governor Leary will have his marines with him and the big Yosemite out in the bay. He will have about 4,000 subjects to control, and the problems of government will be new and unique. He has sufficient latitude to deal with the questions that arise in his own original way.—New York Sun

NEW ANECDOTE OF DEWEY.

Touching Incident Related by One of the Returned Sailors.

"The most affecting incident which occurred and which all of the sailors will remember through their lives, was the action of a powder boy. These boys act as aids to captains and lieutenants in carrying messages and doing errands. When the order was given to strip for action, one of the boys tore his coat off hurriedly, and it fell from his hands and went over the rail, down into the bay. A few moments before he had been gazing on his mother's photograph and just before he took his coat off he had kissed the picture and put it in his inside pocket. When the coat fell overboard, he turned to the captain and asked permission to jump over and get it. Naturally the request was refused. The boy then went to the other side of the ship and climbed down the ladder. He swam around to the place where the coat had dropped and succeeded in getting it. I believe it was still floating when he got there. When he came back, he was ordered in chains for disobedience. After the battle he was tried by a court martial for disobedience and found guilty. Commodore Dewey became interested in the case, for he could not understand why the boy had risked his life and disobeyed orders for a coat. The lad had never told what his motives were. But when the commodore talked to him in a kindly way and asked him why he had done such strange things for an old coat, he broke into tears and told the commodore that his mother's picture was in the coat. Stevenson Dewey's eyes filled with tears as he listened to the story. Then he picked the boy up in his arms and embraced him. He ordered the little fellow to be instantly released and pardoned. Boys who love their mothers enough to risk their lives for her picture cannot be kept in irons on this fleet," he said.

"Just before the action the boys all exchanged keepsakes and intrusted numerous packages to each other to send to their homes in case they were killed in action. One of the misfortunes on the Boston was the great scarcity of tobacco the morning of the battle. Almost all the sailors were out of the weed. But one man had over a pound, and he divided it in equal lots among his companions, keeping only the regular share for himself."—New York Journal.

THE EAST END.

THE NEW GLASS PLANT

The Promoters Are Making Rapid Progress.

THINKING ABOUT THE SITE

Real Estate Men Are Rushed With Orders For Houses and Cannot Begin to Fill the Demand—Work at the Brick Plant—Working on a Main.

Before Saturday evening it will be known whether the proposed glass factory will be located in the East End or some other part of the city.

During the past few days the promoters of the project have received offers of several locations, but where these locations are is not being made known at least for the present. Yesterday afternoon it was learned that the Harker site met with the most favor, but whether this will be the site selected none of the promoters will say. The work of soliciting funds for the new concern is progressing favorably, and more than one-half of the desired amount has been subscribed. With a few more weeks' work it is said enough money will have been subscribed to commence work on the buildings.

Could Rent Fifty Houses.

"If East End had 50 vacant houses at the present time I could rent them all at a high figure," said a prominent resident of that district last evening. The assertion was no doubt correct, as yesterday it was impossible to rent a house in any part of the district. During the day many strangers, some from Wellsville and Liverpool proper, spent some time looking for a vacant house, but none were to be had. The houses now being erected will be occupied by those who own them, and few if any are being built for rental. There is a growing desire among some of the people living in the city to reside in that part of town, and until more houses are built that desire will not decrease.

Awaiting Developments.

The making of brick at the brick yard was commenced this morning. The force of employes has been decreased two men on account of several of the former workmen securing other positions. Joseph Johnson when asked yesterday if new machinery would be added to the plant, said he could not say anything at the present time on the matter, and the best thing to do under the circumstances was to await developments.

Lost a Wheel.

Aaron McDonald was driving a wagon loaded with lumber to this part of the city yesterday afternoon when one of the wheels came off, causing the lumber to fall on the roadway. A new wheel was secured and matters righted within a short time.

Running Full Time.

The plant of the French China company at present is rushed with orders, and not less than a car of ware is packed every day. Since the plant was started there has always been a large number of orders on hand.

Shipped Two Cars.

The Knowles, Taylor & Anderson company yesterday shipped two cars of pipe to Rabway, N. J. The yards are about emptied of No. 1 goods, and unless the plant resumes operations soon it will be impossible to get any pipe of some sizes.

Lowering a Main.

The water main in Pennsylvania avenue near the culvert is being lowered several feet. Five men are working on the improvement, and will have it completed by tomorrow.

Moved a Derrick.

The derrick that has stood in Pennsylvania avenue since work on the culvert was commenced, was lowered yesterday and removed to the stone quarry of Contractor Schmelenbach.

Nearing Completion.

The new residence being erected in Erie street by James Fulton, is nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy within a few weeks.

Is Recovering.

Lincoln Harker, who has been ill for several months, is recovering rapidly.

Will Entertain.

At the meeting of the Junior Mechanics to be held this evening one candidate living in East End will be initiated. After the regular business has been transacted the social committee will entertain the council.

EXPENDITURE OF MONEY.

How the Taxpayers' Money Must Be Expended.

For the benefit of the public at large, and for the purpose of giving much needed information to some members of council, the NEWS REVIEW publishes section 14, page 39, of the city ordinances as follows:

"No money shall be appropriated, except by ordinance. All ordinances appropriating money shall receive the approval of the finance committee before passage. All ordinances presented, appropriating money without said approval, shall be referred, without debate, to the finance committee, unless this rule is temporarily suspended by the concurrence of three-fourths of all the members, and a vote on such suspension shall be taken by calling the yeas and nays and entering the same on the journal."

BOXING GLOVES

Failed to Settle the Dispute of Two Well Known Men.

They decided to settle their difficulties at once, and after purchasing a set of boxing gloves they repaired with a number of friends to a spacious room. A referee and timekeeper were selected, and the fun commenced. Neither of the men exhibited much science, but they punched hard and fast, and furnished much amusement for the spectators. After they had sparred for three rounds both men were worn out, and the bout was declared off without any decision being given.

DIRTY STREETS

Are Caused by Teamsters Who Do Not Use Tight Wagons.

Yesterday afternoon a wagon loaded with sand was drawn along Fifth street, and it left a row of sand in its trail, while another wagon loaded with flint left marks to show that it had passed through the streets. Scarcely a day passes that stones and rubbish are not dropped in the streets, and under the circumstances it is almost impossible for Street Commissioner Bryan to keep the streets clean.

THE GEON CASE

Will Be Heard Tomorrow Afternoon by Mayor Bough.

The case against Joseph W. Geon, for violating the Sunday screen ordinance, which has been postponed several times, will be heard tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by Mayor Bough.

The preliminary motion in the case have been argued, and it will not take long to hear the testimony as there will be only three witnesses to examine. It is probable the case will go to common pleas court if the decision is against Geon.

THE SAME LIST

Will Be Presented to Council by Mayor Bough.

When Mayor Bough was asked if he would present the list of police appointments at the next meeting of council that he had prepared for the last session, he said:

"I see no reason why the list should be changed, and I would have done something in the matter Tuesday night had not the hour been so late when council adjourned. Yes, it is probable I will present the list at the next meeting."

WORKING LATE.

The Pony Crew Have All the Work They Can Do.

Crockery shipments are increasing, and the general freight business of the city has reached such proportions that the pony crew have all they can do to keep even with the task allotted each day.

Monday night it was 8:30 o'clock when the engine returned to Wellsville, while Tuesday night it was 7 o'clock before the work was finished. The rush is expected to continue for some time.

NOT ANXIOUS

Are Local Men to Assist in a Prize Fight.

Mike O'Keefe, of Buffalo, is in the city. He claims that he is here for the purpose of arranging a prize fight to take place in the vicinity of the city between two men of national reputation. He claims he wants to engage two local men for a preliminary bout, and called on a few members of the sporting fraternity, but did not receive much encouragement from them.

EIGHTY YEARS OLD

The Odd Fellows Observed Their Anniversary.

GRAND MASTER MILLER'S SPEECH

The Meeting Was Not Held at the Young Men's Christian Association Last Night, and the Original Program Was Not Carried Out Because of a Death.

The eightieth anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of America was observed by the lodge of this city in a fitting manner last night. The original program consisting of a banquet and parade, was changed on account of the death of a member, and instead of using the Young Men's Christian association auditorium for the occasion the lodge room was used. At 8.30 o'clock the meeting was called to order, and Chairman Croxall in a short speech stated the object of the meeting and gave a brief history of the local lodge. Of the later he said: "This lodge was organized July 27, 1833. There were 15 charter members, of whom three are now living, and only one of this number is still a member. The others are either dead or moved to other parts. The lodge has now over 200 members and has property valued at over $20,000.

The speaker of the evening, Ralph P. Miller, of Columbus, grand master of the supreme lodge of Ohio, was introduced, and after speaking of the merits of the order said:

"John Welsh, member of the lodge of England, inserted an advertisement in the Baltimore American, asking that all members of the lodge assemble at the Seven Stars, in Second street, on March 27, 1819. This call was responded to by about 15 men. A committee was appointed to adopt plans for reorganization, and a few weeks afterwards Washington lodge, No. 1, was organized. From that time until today lodges have been organizing all over the country, with a total membership of over 3,000,000, of which about 85,000 are in Ohio. The organization, like a political party, has adopted a platform—friendship, love and truth. The planks are long and broad enough to support the entire population. Caste should not be tolerated by members of Odd Fellowship. The same obligations that were advanced to candidates in 1819 are advanced to candidates today. They have never been changed, and never will. Truth is the corner stone of our lodge, while love is the keystone. Friendship is the strongly welded link that has no hands, and forms an important part in Odd Fellowship. We should relieve our distressed, not by proxy; visit our sick, not by proxy; bury our dead, not by proxy; educate our orphans, not by proxy. There should not be any proxies in true Odd Fellowship, and the truest example of the latter is found in the rural lodges. From the bottom of my heart I say, use no substitutes or proxies in discharging the obligations of Odd Fellowship. It was love of humanity that only a few months ago gave to history a Dewey, a Hobson and seven men that the tyranny of a mother country should be banished from the earth, and in its place has been planted the Star Spangled Banner. "The capitalist and laborer stand on a platform of equality. Love and truth form a combination of virtues that are undestructable."

After the meeting had been adjourned those present held an informal social lasting about half an hour.

CUBAN BANDIT CAPTURED.

Major Duncan B. Harrison's Hand to Hand Encounter With Him.

An interesting story reached the war department from Santiago recently about a hand to hand encounter between Major Duncan B. Harrison of the Ninth immunes and Prudencio Breal, a notorious guerrilla chief, commonly known as Trocon, or Big Stump. Breal's gang of bandits had killed Andrew Gattshalk, a teamster, and Major Harrison, with seven men, was sent to capture the gang. The Americans, mounted on mules, overtook the gang near Santa Ana after two days' trailing. In the fight which occurred two bandits were killed and three wounded. The rest fled, but Harrison and his men caught Breal and some others. Breal showed fight. He is a negro 6 feet 7 inches tall. He clinched with Harrison, who is something of a giant himself. Harrison bore the bandit to the ground and bound him, with the assistance of others. It was found that Harrison had been shot in the leg, and he suffered severely during the ride on a mule's back to Santiago, 70 miles distant. On the return trip two of the captured bandits were identified as the men who had killed Gattshalk. They attempted to escape and were killed. Breal is known in Santiago province as the Executioner. He boasts of having killed 103 Spaniards and several Americans.

Instructions have been issued by the war department officials for a practical test in the field of a wrist belt designed to hold 20 cartridges. The material of the belt is the same as that used in standard waist belts. The idea of the wrist belt originated from the practice of American soldiers of carrying four or five cartridges in the left hand or held between the teeth. As the left hand is habitually close to the breech block during firings, cartridges held in a wrist belt can be more readily fed, it is claimed, to the gun than from a waist belt.

It is proposed by the war department authorities to issue three wrist belts per soldier. The wrist belt will be supplied as heretofore. The wrist belts will ordinarily be carried by the men in their haversacks and pockets. One of them will be slipped over the left hand at the order to commence firing.

Our Locomotives For the World.

A dispatch from Philadelphia to New York says that an order for 45 locomotives from the government of India has been received there, the order covering various sizes, including many especially adapted to mining districts. The Baldwin Locomotive works have just finished the first locomotive of the 30 recently ordered by the Midland railway of England. The locomotives will be shipped from New York instead of Philadelphia because of lower rates and berth facilities in New York. The locomotives differ from those in general use in England in the cowcatchers, couplers and airbrakes and in much greater capacity for coal and water.

The children all died young and it is asserted they were poisoned with cyanide of potassium.

EIGHTY YEARS OLD

The Odd Fellows Observed Their Anniversary.

GRAND MASTER MILLER'S SPEECH

The Meeting Was Not Held at the Young Men's Christian Association Last Night, and the Original Program Was Not Carried Out Because of a Death.

The eightieth anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of America was observed by the lodge of this city in a fitting manner last night. The original program consisting of a banquet and parade, was changed on account of the death of a member, and instead of using the Young Men's Christian association auditorium for the occasion the lodge room was used. At 8:30 o'clock the meeting was called to order, and Chairman Croxall in a short speech stated the object of the meeting and gave a brief history of the local lodge. Of the later he said: "This lodge was organized July 27, 1833. There were 15 charter members, of whom three are now living, and only one of this number is still a member. The others are either dead or moved to other parts. The lodge has now over 200 members and has property valued at over $20,000.

The speaker of the evening, Ralph P. Miller, of Columbus, grand master of the supreme lodge of Ohio, was introduced, and after speaking of the merits of the order said:

"John Welsh, member of the lodge of England, inserted an advertisement in the Baltimore American, asking that all members of the lodge assemble at the Seven Stars, in Second street, on March 27, 1819. This call was responded to by about 15 men. A committee was appointed to adopt plans for reorganization, and a few weeks afterwards Washington lodge, No. 1, was organized. From that time until today lodges have been organizing all over the country, with a total membership of over 3,000,000, of which about 85,000 are in Ohio. The organization, like a political party, has adopted a platform—friendship, love and truth. The planks are long and broad enough to support the entire population. Caste should not be tolerated by members of Odd Fellowship. The same obligations that were advanced to candidates in 1819 are advanced to candidates today. They have never been changed, and never will. Truth is the corner stone of our lodge, while love is the keystone. Friendship is the strongly welded link that has no hands, and forms an important part in Odd Fellowship. We should relieve our distressed, not by proxy; visit our sick, not by proxy; bury our dead, not by proxy; educate our orphans, but not by proxy. There should not be any proxies in true Odd Fellowship, and the truest example of the latter is found in the rural lodges. From the bottom of my heart I say, use no substitutes or proxies in discharging the obligations of Odd Fellowship. It was love of humanity that only a few months ago gave to history a Dewey, a Hobson and seven men that the tyranny of a mother country should be banished from the earth, and in its place has been planted the Star Spangled Banner.

"The capitalist and laborer stand on a platform of equality. Love and truth form a combination of virtues that are undestructable."

After the meeting had been adjourned those present held an informal social lasting about half an hour.

OUR CUT PRICES

Should Be Considered by Economical Business Men.

You can save several dollars a year by placing your printing in the hands of the NEWS REVIEW, and at the same time have a high grade of work, that you will be proud of. We have always been the leading printers of the city, and will maintain our reputation. Our excellent line of papers, fine grade inks and up-to-date type, ornaments, etc., make our product desirable. We have always contended that printing done at the NEWS REVIEW should command a little more than that of the smaller offices, because of its superiority, but in order to keep all our machinery in operation at all times, and avoid lulls in business, which happen occasionally, we have revised our price list, and made such a slash in figures that we have no fear of competition. Remember, no shoddy material is to be found in our large stock room—everything is first-class. Fine color printing, for which we have gained a reputation, is one of our chief specialties. We can give you an elegant two-color job for the price usually paid for one color. If an economical business man, you will call up telephone 122 before placing an order. This is not a spur, but a standing offer.

Instructions have been issued by the war department officials for a practical test in the field of a wrist belt designed to hold 30 cartridges. The material of the belt is the same as that used in standard waist belts. The idea of the wrist belt originated from the practice of American soldiers of carrying four or five cartridges in the left hand or held between the teeth. As the left hand is habitually close to the breech block during firings, cartridges held in a wrist belt can be more readily fed, it is claimed, to the gun than from a waist belt.

It is proposed by the war department authorities to issue three wrist belts per soldier. The waist belt will be supplied as heretofore. The wrist belts will ordinarily be carried by the men in their haversacks and pockets. One of them will be slipped over the left hand at the order to commence firing.

Our Locomotives For the World.

A dispatch from Philadelphia to New York says that an order for 45 locomotives from the government of India has been received there, the order covering various sizes, including many especially adapted to mining districts. The Baldwin Locomotive works have just finished the first locomotive of the 30 recently ordered by the Midland railway of England. The locomotives will be shipped from New York instead of Philadelphia because of lower rates and berth facilities in New York. The locomotives differ from those in general use in England in the cowcatchers, couplers and airbrakes and in much greater capacity for coal and water.

EIGHTY YEARS OLD

The Odd Fellows Observed Their Anniversary.

GRAND MASTER MILLER'S SPEECH

The Meeting Was Not Held at the Young Men's Christian Association Last Night, and the Original Program Was Not Carried Out Because of a Death.

The eightieth anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of America was observed by the lodge of this city in a fitting manner last night. The original program consisting of a banquet and parade, was changed on account of the death of a member, and instead of using the Young Men's Christian association auditorium for the occasion the lodge room was used. At 8:30 o'clock the meeting was called to order, and Chairman Croxall in a short speech stated the object of the meeting and gave a brief history of the local lodge. Of the later he said: "This lodge was organized July 27, 1833. There were 15 charter members, of whom three are now living, and only one of this number is still a member. The others are either dead or moved to other parts. The lodge has now over 200 members and has property valued at over $20,000.

The speaker of the evening, Ralph P. Miller, of Columbus, grand master of the supreme lodge of Ohio, was introduced, and after speaking of the merits of the order said:

"John Welsh, member of the lodge of England, inserted an advertisement in the Baltimore American, asking that all members of the lodge assemble at the Seven Stars, in Second street, on March 27, 1819. This call was responded to by about 15 men. A committee was appointed to adopt plans for reorganization, and a few weeks afterwards Washington lodge, No. 1, was organized. From that time until today lodges have been organizing all over the country, with a total membership of over 3,000,000, of which about 85,000 are in Ohio. The organization, like a political party, has adopted a platform—friendship, love and truth. The planks are long and broad enough to support the entire population. Caste should not be tolerated by members of Odd Fellowship. The same obligations that were advanced to candidates in 1819 are advanced to candidates today. They have never been changed, and never will. Truth is the corner stone of our lodge, while love is the keystone. Friendship is the strongly welded link that has no hands, and forms an important part in Odd Fellowship. We should relieve our distressed, not by proxy; visit our sick, not by proxy; bury our dead, not by proxy; educate our orphans, but not by proxy. There should not be any proxies in true Odd Fellowship, and the truest example of the latter is found in the rural lodges. From the bottom of my heart I say, use no substitutes or proxies in discharging the obligations of Odd Fellowship. It was love of humanity that only a few months ago gave to history a Dewey, a Hobson and seven men that the tyranny of a mother country should be banished from the earth, and in its place has been planted the Star Spangled Banner.

"The capitalist and laborer stand on a platform of equality. Love and truth form a combination of virtues that are undestructable."

After the meeting had been adjourned those present held an informal social fasting about half an hour.

TAKEN HOME.

James Elliott Is Rapidly Regaining His Health.

James Elliott, who was injured several weeks ago when a wagon overturned in Pennsylvania avenue in East End, was today taken to his home in Bellevue, Pa., by Mrs. Elliott, who came here when her husband was hurt. He is still far from well, but can walk by the aid of a cane.

Mr. Elliott is a brother of Mrs. A. J. Boyce, and he has been at her residence in Forest street since the accident occurred.

Grand Friday Night.

An evening of mirth is assured those who visit the Grand Friday night to witness the famous European Sensation Burlesquers. OUR CUT PRICES

Should Be Considered by Economical Business Men.

You can save several dollars a year by placing your printing in the hands of the NEWS REVIEW, and at the same time have a high grade of work, that you will be proud of. We have always been the leading printers of the city, and will maintain our reputation. Our excellent line of papers, fine grade inks and up-to-date type, ornaments, etc., make our product desirable. We have always contended that printing done at the NEWS REVIEW should command a little more than that of the smaller offices, because of its superiority, but in order to keep all our machinery in operation at all times, and avoid lulls in business, which happen occasionally, we have revised our price list, and made such a slash in figures that we have no fear of competition. Remember, no shoddy material is to be found in our large stock room—everything is first-class. Fine color printing, for which we have gained a reputation, is one of our chief specialties. We can give you an elegant two-color job for the price usually paid for one color. If an economical business man, you will call up telephone 122 before placing an order. This is not a spurt, but a standing offer.

CUBAN BANDIT CAPTURED.

Major Duncan B. Harrison's Hand to Hand Encounter With Him.

An interesting story reached the war department from Santiago recently about a hand to hand encounter between Major Duncan B. Harrison of the Ninth immunes and Prudencio Breal, a notorious guerrilla chief, commonly known as Trocon, or Big Stump. Breal's gang of bandits had killed Andrew Gattshalk, a teamster, and Major Harrison, with seven men, was sent to capture the gang. The Americans, mounted on mules, overtook the gang near Santa Ana after two days' trailing. In the fight which occurred two bandits were killed and three wounded. The rest fled, but Harrison and his men caught Breal and some others. Breal showed fight. He is a negro 6 feet 7 inches tall. He clinched with Harrison, who is something of a giant himself. Harrison bore the bandit to the ground and bound him, with the assistance of others. It was found that Harrison had been shot in the leg, and he suffered severely during the ride on a mule's back to Santiago, 70 miles distant. On the return trip two of the captured bandits were identified as the men who had killed Gattshalk. They attempted to escape and were killed. Breal is known in Santiago province as the Executioner. He boasts of having killed 103 Spaniards and several Americans.

COUNCILMEN.

There are councilmen and councilmen.
When narrow minded members of such
a body make use of their public position
for the gratification of petty spite and malice, then are they unworthy of the trust reposed in them--unfit to be called councilmen, and lacking in every essential which goes to make up the manly
man.

REPUBLICANS?

Did it ever occur to you that the only men worthy to be called REPUBLICANS
are those who are founded in the faith
on the solid rock of PRINCIPLE? The fellows who are in the ranks of the Grand Old Party (old, yet ever new in
the advocacy of liberty and pure government) simply from the standpoint of
SPOILS and GREED OF OFFICE, are not Republicans, but mere time servers, and are the most deadly enemies true Republicanism can have.

IGNORING THE SOLICITOR.

East Liverpool pays its solicitor a salary to look after its legal affairs and as advisor to council. It does not elect an attorney to the place in order that council may ask his advice and then refuse to recognize it, nor does the city
expect that councilmen shall constantly follow that course. If members of the legislative branch believe they are possessed of sufficient legal knowledge to make their way clear without the aid of a solicitor, why not permit council to select one of their number and strike
the office from the list? It would save the city some $600 a year and convince the member who fills the place that he has undertaken a contract that he cannot carry out.

Solicitor McGarry is an honest official,
and since his election he has given the public no reason to believe that he is not doing his duty faithfully. There have been times when he frankly showed council that if his advice had been followed the city would not have been put to needless expense, yet there are members who persist in crying down the advice he offers at almost every meeting.
Council should take advantage of the solicitor's advice, or why should the city
be compelled to support a luxury in the form of a solicitor?

TO TALK OF THE COURT

Attorneys Will Hold a Session
This Evening.

HAVE CONSULTED COMMISSIONERS

Regarding What Is to Them a Very Important Matter--Arrangements Will Be Made to Push the Project Along as Rapidly as Possible.

The attorneys of the city will meet
this evening to take further action upon
the question of establishing a police court in the city.

The attorneys have been active since their last meeting and have given the subject a thorough investigation. At the meeting to be held tonight arrangements will be made to have the committee present the plan to council at
their next regular meeting.

After inquiry it cannot be learned whether the attorneys have consulted
the county commissioners in regard to what they are willing to pay toward supporting the court here, but it is understood the commissioners were approached on the subject when they were in the city a few days ago.

The attorneys are expecting much opposition to the plan, and already there is much feeling at the county seat
against it, and the matter will be fought bitterly, both directly and indirectly, by county seat residents. The reason given is that the police court will deprive the county seat of much revenue,
because of the non-attendance of witnesses and parties at trials. The people of Lisbon who have expressed themselves on the subject, say that it is only a step toward moving the courthouse to this city.

THE PHENOMENON

Cured People of All Kinds of Ills Last Night.

The Boy Phenomenon, who had been extensively advertised to appear at the Grand last night and cure afflicted individuals, faced a large audience and carried out his part of the program.

A number of persons suffering from rheumatism, deafness and defective eye sight were sensibly improved, the young man doing nothing more than pass his hands over the heads of his patients and rubbing the afflicted parts. Another public demonstration will be given tonight.

NO MEETING

Was Held by the Stockholders of the Bridge Company.

Wednesday was the time set when
the stockholders of the bridge company
would meet in Chester, and complete
the business arranged at the annual session last week, when an injunction, was served by a deputy marshal restraining the concern from selling stock.
The officers did not appear, however,
and no meeting was held.

President Jutte, Secretary Frick and
the stockholders met today, but nothing was done.

BUXTON-WEBBER.

The Ceremony Was Performed This Morning by Reverend Weary.

At 11:30 o'clock this morning, at the rectory of St. Stephen's church, Rev.
Edwin Weary united in marriage Miss Sarah Webber, of Market street, and Walter Buxton, head decorator of the Dresden Pottery company.

Mr. and Mrs. Buxton left on the noon train for the east where they will remain several weeks. Upon their return to the city they will go to housekeeping.

Fabio Romani.

Aiden Benedict's "Fabio Romani,"
which will be presented at the Grand
April 29, is a dramatization of Marie Correlli's famous novel entitled "The Vendetta." It is a very interesting story, and the interest is much strengthened by the dramatic production. It is a melo-drama with sense and consistency, as well as undeniable power and unflinching interest. It is filled with interesting dramatic scenes, which grapple fast to the heart strings, and the comedy, which comes in naturally, is not only genuine but appropriate. The play is well staged, the company carrying all the scenery for the production.

IN CAMP AT WOODLAWN PARK

The King Will Be There With All His Friends and It Will Be a Time of Rejoicing--The Party of Gypsies Now In This City Will Soon Start For Chicago.

Levi Stanley and family, the Gypsies who are camping in the East End, are on their way to Chicago where they,
with others, are expected to attend a reunion of all the Stanley families known to exist. In speaking of this all important event yesterday evening Mr.
Stanley said:

"It has been many years since we have all been together. There are about 70 families, and I personally have no less than three brothers and several cousins now on their way to Chicago. During this week Gustave Stanley, whom we call our king, will pitch
a camp near Woodlawn park. Upon his arrival a fire will be built and it will be kept constantly burning until all the tribes have assembled around it. This is a custom that has always been observed. By the third week in June the various families will have been assembled and the fire will be extinguished. After that Mollie Stanley, who was last year crowned queen of our set
in the west, will be formerly recognized by our people. People from the old country are expected to be there, and
interesting one."

When Mr. Stanley spoke of meeting
with his people tears came to his eyes,
and when asked the cause he smiled
meekly and said, "Oh, nothing."

A STATEMENT

Regarding Representations Made to Council Tuesday Night.

In order that the public may know
the facts I desire to say that the First National bank knows nothing of the parties who secured a telephone franchise from the city council last Tuesday night, and this institution did not recommend or stand back of Mr. Thayer, in whose name, we understand, the franchise was given. The communication presented was never seen by an officer
of this bank, and its contents were not known. The First National bank has nothing whatever to do with any project
looking to the construction of another telephone system in this place, and because of the representation made to council believes the action of that body should be reconsidered. If this is not done, we ask all our friends who think of binding themselves by contract to take the service to first investigate, and not support it under the assumption that the First National is behind the project.

FOR JONES

Columbiana County Delegates Will

"Columbiana's delegation at the state convention will cast its first ballot for General Jones, of Youngstown," said a prominent politician of the county to the NEWS REVIEW.

"General Jones is a resident of this district. We all know him, and think we should support him. I do not say that he will get our vote until the winner is named, but he will get it on the

Mayor Bough is of the opinion that a request for this improvement will

many places the plaster being visible.
The court room on the same floor could
be improved in various ways.

Mrs. Lizzie Smith was so unfortunate as to lose her pocketbook between Broadway and College on Kossuth. It contained $1.15, gold pencil, cuff buttons and handkerchief. The pencil and pocketbook are valued as presents from her mother. The finder will be rewarded

But a Number of Bicycles Were In a Bunch.

A number of wheelmen figured in a mix up at Fourth and Broadway but
no one was hurt.

As usual there were two parties, one racing out of Broadway and the other making good time along Fourth street.
When they came together the crowd seemed just a bunch of bicycles and boys. No one was seriously hurt although each received bruises.

On the River.

The river still maintains a good stage,
and during the night the stream raised about a foot, making the marks at the wharf this morning 7.6 feet, and rising slowly. The rise will enable a number of the northbound towboats to reach Pittsburg.

The Virginia went south with a heavy trip last night, and had the largest passenger list of the Cincinnati boats during the season.

The Ben Hur will be down tonight, and the Greenwood and Lorena will be up this evening.

COUNCILMEN.

There are councilmen and councilmen.
When narrow minded members of such
a body make use of their public position
for the gratification of petty spite and
malice, then are they unworthy of the trust reposed in them--unfit to be called councilmen, and lacking in every essen-
man.

REPUBLICANS?

Did it ever occur to you that the only
men worthy to be called REPUBLICANS
are those who are founded in the faith
on the solid rock of PRINCIPLE? The fellows who are in the ranks of the Grand Old Party (old, yet ever new in
the advocacy of liberty and pure government) simply from the standpoint of
SPOILS and GREED OF OFFICE, are not Republicans, but mere time servers, and
are the most deadly enemies true Republicanism can have.

IGNORING THE SOLICITOR.

East Liverpool pays its solicitor a salary to look after its legal affairs and
as advisor to council. It does not elect
an attorney to the place in order that council may ask his advice and then refuse to recognize it, nor does the city
expect that councilmen shall constantly
follow that course. If members of the legislative branch believe they are possessed of sufficient legal knowledge to make their way clear without the aid of
a solicitor, why not permit council to select one of their number and strike
the office from the list? It would save
the city some $600 a year and convince
the member who fills the place that he has undertaken a contract that he cannot carry out.

Solicitor McGarry is an honest official,
and since his election he has given the
public no reason to believe that he is not doing his duty faithfully. There have been times when he frankly showed
council that if his advice had been followed the city would not have been put
bers who persist in crying down the advice he offers at almost every meeting.
Council should take advantage of the
solicitor's advice, or why should the city
be compelled to support a luxury in the
form of a solicitor?

 doing his duty faithfully. There have been times when he frankly showed
 council that if his advice had been followed the city would not have been put
 bers who persist in crying down the advice he offers at almost every meeting.
 Council should take advantage of the
 solicitor's advice, or why should the city
 be compelled to support a luxury in the
 form of a solicitor?

Attorneys Will Hold a Session
 This Evening.

HAVE CONSULTED COMMISSIONERS

Regarding What Is to Them a Very Important Matter--Arrangements Will Be Made to Push the Project Along as Rapidly as Possible.

The attorneys of the city will meet
 this evening to take further action upon
 the question of establishing a police
 court in the city.

 their last meeting and have given the subject a thorough investigation. At
 the meeting to be held tonight arrangements will be made to have the committee present the plan to council at
 their next regular meeting.

After inquiry it cannot be learned
 whether the attorneys have consulted
 the county commissioners in regard to what they are willing to pay toward supporting the court here, but it is understood the commissioners were approached on the subject when they were in the city a few days ago.

The attorneys are expecting much opposition to the plan, and already there
 is much feeling at the county seat
 against it, and the matter will be fought
 bitterly, both directly and indirectly, by county seat residents. The reason given is that the police court will deprive the county seat of much revenue,
 because of the non-attendance of witnesses and parties at trials. The people
 of Lisbon who have expressed themselves on the subject, say that it is only a step toward moving the courthouse to this city.

THE PHENOMENON

 Night.

The Boy Phenomenon, who had been extensively advertised to appear at the Grand last night and cure afflicted individuals, faced a large audience and
 carried out his part of the program.

 rheumatism, deafness and defective eye
 sight were sensibly improved, the young man doing nothing more than pass his

hands over the heads of his patients and
 rubbing the afflicted parts. Another public demonstration will be given tonight.

NO MEETING

Wednesday was the time set when
 the stockholders of the bridge company
 would meet in Chester, and complete
 the business arranged at the annual

 was served by a deputy marshal restraining the concern from selling stock.
 The officers did not appear, however,
 and no meeting was held.

President Jutte, Secretary Frick and
 the stockholders met today, but nothing
 was done.

Fabio Romani.

Aiden Benedict's "Fabio Romani,"
 which will be presented at the Grand
 April 29, is a dramatization of Marie
 Correlli's famous novel entitled "The Vendetta." It is a very interesting story, and the interest is much strengthened by the dramatic production. It is
 a melo-drama with sense and consistency, as well as undeniable power and unflagging interest. It is filled with interesting dramatic scenes, which grapple fast to the heart strings, and the comedy, which comes in naturally, is
 not only genuine but appropriate. The play is well staged, the company carrying all the scenery for the production.

THE FIRE WILL BURN

 Have Assembled.

IN CAMP AT WOODLAWN PARK

The King Will Be There With All His Friends and It Will Be a Time of Rejoicing--The Party of Gypsies Now In This City Will Soon Start For Chicago.

Levi Stanley and family, the Gypsies
 who are camping in the East End, are
 on their way to Chicago where they,
 with others, are expected to attend a reunion of all the Stanley families known
 portant event yesterday evening Mr.
 Stanley said:

"It has been many years since we
 70 families, and I personally have no
 less than three brothers and several cousins now on their way to Chicago. During this week Gustave Stanley, whom we call our king, will pitch
 a camp near Woodlawn park. Upon his arrival a fire will be built and it will
 be kept constantly burning until all the tribes have assembled around it. This is a custom that has always been observed. By the third week in June the various families will have been assembled and the fire will be extinguished. After that Mollie Stanley, who was last year crowned queen of our set
 in the west, will be formerly recognized
 by our people. People from the old
 the event promises to an exceedingly
 interesting one."

When Mr. Stanley spoke of meeting
 with his people tears came to his eyes,
 and when asked the cause he smiled

Regarding Representations Made to Council Tuesday Night.

In order that the public may know
 the facts I desire to say that the First National bank knows nothing of the parties who secured a telephone franchise from the city council last Tuesday
 night, and this institution did not recommend or stand back of Mr. Thayer,
 in whose name, we understand, the franchise was given. The communication
 presented was never seen by an officer
 of this bank, and its contents were not known. The First National bank has nothing whatever to do with any project
 looking to the construction of another
 telephone system in this place, and because of the representation made to council believes the action of that body
 should be reconsidered. If this is not done, we ask all our friends who think of binding themselves by contract to take
 the service to first investigate, and not support it under the assumption that the First National is behind the project.

FOR JONES

Columbiana County Delegates Will Vote.

"Columbiana's delegation at the state convention will cast its first ballot for General Jones, of Youngstown," said a prominent politician of the county to the NEWS REVIEW.

"General Jones is a resident of this district. We all know him, and think we should support him. I do not say that he will get our vote until the winner is named, but he will get it on the first call."

Mayor Bough Thinks His Office Should be Renovated.

Mayor Bough is of the opinion that
 his office and courtroom should be pa-

ANOTHER ALLEN DEAL

Has Gone to Join His Already Long List.

NO SALE OF THOMPSON HOUSE

The Matter Should Have Been Closed Last Tuesday, but Homer Sutton Did Not Appear and Landlord Polk Thinks It Is Off. Allen Was the Promoter.

C. E. Allen, president of the defunct Ohio Clay Manufacturing company, president of the bank that never happened, and connected with the lumber business on paper, also expected to become interested in the sale of the Thompson House. The papers were signed several weeks ago, and the first payment was to have been made yesterday, but the property is still in possession of Landlord Polk.

Allen had been talking the matter of sale with Mr. Polk, and taking it as would the promoter of any plan said he would find a purchaser for the property. Soon afterward Homer Sutton, of Grove City, Pa., father of the young man who took stock in the Ohio Clay Manufacturing company and was made secretary by Allen, came to town. He wanted to buy the Thompson House, and the matter was arranged. The papers were duly signed, and Mr. Sutton was to pay $2,500 on the bargain last Tuesday. The same amount was to be paid in a week, and next November he was to pay $5,000. Arrangements were also made for the payment of the remainder of the purchase price.

When Allen disappeared owing Mr. Polk $50 he was not sure that the hotel would change hands, but he waited for developments until Tuesday. Then when Mr. Sutton did not come to make the first payment he knew the deal was off. It is believed that Allen was to be a partner with Sutton in the hotel, and no one thinks the former had anything to do with the affairs of Allen or knew anything of him except as he appeared to Liverpool people.

A Pittsburg paper of this morning is responsible for the statement that H. F. Boyd was yesterday registered at the Griswold House in Detroit. As Allen last week talked by telephone to Mrs. H. F. Boyd at Niagara Falls, he being in a business house in this place, it is probable the revelation is more than a coincidence.

Yesterday a bill for $1 reached the city from Brick, a trade paper in Chicago. It was directed to Allen, and asked him to pay the subscription price of the paper. Among Allen's effects had been found before this time a card bearing the name of L. P. Allen as being connected with Brick. A telegram was sent to the paper asking if L. P. Allen was in its employ, and the answer came back that he was its traveling subscription agent. That ended the supposition that C. E. Allen had been acting in that capacity.

UNLOADED

Is the Machinery For Use on the Cumberland Branch.

The work of unloading the machinery, brought to the Virginia side Tuesday and to be used in the construction of the Cumberland branch, has been finished.

This morning some carts and scrapers were unloaded on the shore opposite the wharf boat. A large force of men are now engaged in unloading the coal from the flats to the shore. Engineer McConnell, who will have charge of the work for the railroad company, stated this morning he did not think excavating would be commenced before Monday.

ALLEN MUST PAY

If the Florist Ever Expects to Get His Money.

The case of Thomas B. Freeman against the Ohio Clay Manufacturing company for $150, on a draft given him by C. E. Allen, was heard this morning in the court of Squire Rose. The testimony was taken and after hearing the arguments it was dismissed by Squire Rose. If Freeman recovers his money he will have to get it from Allen.

Alex Johnson, who is a member of the new company that is in the process of formation, stated this morning that he had nothing to say of his visit to Sallenville yesterday.

A Quiet but Notable Wedding Yesterday.

The following from the Wheeling News of last evening will be read with pleasure by the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin:

"A quiet but notable wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride in Brookside, Bridgeport's pretty suburb, at high noon today, the principals being Miss Martha Medill, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Medill, and Mr. John Smith Goodwin, a prominent young pottery manufacturer of East Liverpool. The parlors were handsomely decorated for the occasion. The ceremony, which was witnessed only by the relatives of the principals and a few intimate friends, was performed by the Rev. J. A. Donahey, pastor of the Bridgeport Presbyterian church. The bride looked very attractive in a gown of gray broadcloth trimmed with violet velvet. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was discussed and an informal reception held. This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin leave on an eastern wedding trip and after May 15 will be at home at East Liverpool. The bride is one of the most popular of Bridgeport's young ladies and has many friends in this city. She was a former pupil at Mt. de Chantal and graduated there two years ago with honors. Mr. Goodwin is a son of one of the pottery pioneers of East Liverpool and prominent in pottery manufacturing circles in that town. He also has numerous friends here. Both he and his bride will enter into their married life with a host of best wishes for all happiness."

SMALL STRIKE.

Warehousewomen at Vodrey's Quit Work Today.

This morning at the Vodrey pottery the warehousewomen went out on a strike, asking $1 a day instead of 75 cents, which they now receive. The strike includes seven women, and the firm do not anticipate any trouble in filling their places.

The warehousewomen of the city will probably meet tomorrow evening and organize a union. It is intimated that the strike will spread to other factories, where a like demand for an increase is to be made.

MODERN MIRACLES.

Grand Opera House the Scene of the Most Astonishing and Unparalleled Accomplishments.

The Boy Phenomenon, the Hero of the Day, Greeted With Prolonged Applause From a Gratiified and Surprised Audience.

Another Demonstration Tonight
Free--For Adults Only.

"Wonderful!" "Astonishing!" "Marvelous!" "The Work of God!" "Miraculous!" "How can he do it?" and many like expressions were heard from the vast throng surging out of the Grand Opera House last night, after witnessing the most interesting exhibition of healing the sick ever performed in this part of the country.

There has never been a medical practitioner, or any other man in this town, who has attracted so much attention or has been the object of such universal praise as has been accorded this youthful healer since his advent here. He is the talk of the town. One hears and sees nothing but "Boy Phenomenon." He is the chief topic of conversation on the streets, in the stores, on the cars, in offices, at home—in fact, everywhere. His name coupled with the marvelous cures he has accomplished last night upon the stage, before hundreds of representative citizens of East Liverpool, has created an exciting episode in our city.

There were many of our most prominent and influential citizens in the audience, including leading physicians, lawyers, judges, and business men. As usual many were, no doubt, very skeptical when they went in, but all were of one mind when they went out, and that was that magnetism, as possessed by the "Boy Phenomenon," does undoubtedly possess most wonderful healing qualities.

Tonight will occur the second and last public exhibition. Those who are interested in the work and all who are on crutches, the lame, deaf and sick, who wish to be cured, will be given front seats and treated free upon the stage. Admission free to all adults.

About a dozen well known citizens were treated last night, suffering with many different diseases, and by his wonderful life-giving magnetism restored paralyzed and rheumatic limbs to usefulness, made the deaf hear, the blind see and the lame walk, in each instance the patients demonstrating by their actions and testifying by words the great benefits derived. While there were many remarkable cures performed, time prevents a more extended notice in this article, as the detailed report of the demonstration will be found in the local column. Suffice to say, he did all and more than his advertisement claimed for him. He certainly proved to the most exacting that he has some power by which he is enabled to effect wonderful transformations.

Those who desire private treatment and are able to pay a small price to be treated, may call at the Thompson House any time during the next two weeks and receive consultation, examination and a thorough diagnosis, at which time the examining physician will decide if the case is curable, and if so, the price of treatment will be named. No free cases treated at the hotel. Those wishing free treatment must go to the Grand Opera House tonight. Office hours—10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except the Sabbath.

Allen had been talking the matter of sale with Mr. Polk, and taking it as would the promoter of any plan said he would find a purchaser for the property. Soon afterward Homer Sutton, of Grove City, Pa., father of the young man who took stock in the Ohio Clay Manufacturing company and was made secretary by Allen, came to town. He wanted to buy the Thompson House, and the matter was arranged. The papers were duly signed, and Mr. Sutton was to pay $2,500 on the bargain last Tuesday. The same amount was to be paid in a week, and next November he was to pay $5,000. Arrangements were also made for the payment of the remainder of the purchase price.

When Allen disappeared owing Mr. Polk $50 he was not sure that the hotel would change hands, but he waited for developments until Tuesday. Then when Mr. Sutton did not come to make the first payment he knew the deal was off. It is believed that Allen was to be a partner with Sutton in the hotel, and no one thinks the former had anything to do with the affairs of Allen or knew anything of him except as he appeared to Liverpool people.

A Pittsburg paper of this morning is responsible for the statement that H. F. Boyd was yesterday registered at the Griswold House in Detroit. As Allen last week talked by telephone to Mrs. H. F. Boyd at Niagara Falls, he being in a business house in this place, it is probable the revelation is more than a coincidence.

Yesterday a bill for $1 reached the city from Brick, a trade paper in Chicago. It was directed to Allen, and asked him to pay the subscription price of the paper. Among Allen's effects had been found before this time a card bearing the name of L. P. Allen as being connected with Brick. A telegram was sent to the paper asking if L. P. Allen was in its employ, and the answer came back that he was its traveling subscription agent. That ended the supposition that C. E. Allen had been acting in that capacity.

UNLOADED

Is the Machinery For Use on the Cumberland Branch.

The work of unloading the machinery, brought to the Virginia side Tuesday and to be used in the construction of the Cumberland branch, has been finished.

This morning some carts and scrapers were unloaded on the shore opposite the wharf boat. A large force of men are now engaged in unloading the coal from the flats to the shore. Engineer McConnell, who will have charge of the work for the railroad company, stated this morning he did not think excavating would be commenced before Monday.

ALLEN MUST PAY

If the Florist Ever Expects to Get His Money.

The case of Thomas B. Freeman against the Ohio Clay Manufacturing company for $150, on a draft given him by C. E. Allen, was heard this morning in the court of Squire Rose. The testimony was taken and after hearing the arguments it was dismissed by Squire Rose. If Freeman recovers his money he will have to get it from Allen.

Alex Johnson, who is a member of the new company that is in the process of formation, stated this morning that he had nothing to say of his visit to Sallenville yesterday.

A Quiet but Notable Wedding Yesterday.

The following from the Wheeling News of last evening will be read with pleasure by the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin:

"A quiet but notable wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride in Brookside, Bridgeport's pretty suburb, at high noon today, the principals being Miss Martha Medill, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Medill, and Mr. John Smith Goodwin, a prominent young pottery manufacturer of East Liverpool. The parlors were handsomely decorated for the occasion. The ceremony, which was witnessed only by the relatives of the principals and a few intimate friends, was performed by the Rev. J. A. Donahy, pastor of the Bridgeport Presbyterian church. The bride looked very attractive in a gown of gray broadcloth trimmed with violet velvet. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was discussed and an informal reception held. This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin leave on an eastern wedding trip and after May 15 will be at home at East Liverpool. The bride is one of the most popular of Bridgeport's young ladies and has many friends in this city. She was a former pupil at Mt. de Chantal and graduated there two years ago with honors. SMALL STRIKE.

Warehousewomen at Vodrey's Quit Work Today.

This morning at the Vodrey pottery the warehousewomen went out on a strike, asking $1 a day instead of 75 cents, which they now receive. The strike includes seven women, and the firm do not anticipate any trouble in filling their places.

The warehousewomen of the city will probably meet tomorrow evening and organize a union. It is intimated that the strike will spread to other factories, where a like demand for an increase is to be made.

Grand Opera House the Scene of the Most Astonishing and Unparalleled Accomplishments.

The Boy Phenomenon, the Hero of the Day, Greeted With Prolonged Applause From a Gratiified and Surprised Audience.

Another Demonstration Tonight Free--For Adults Only.

"Wonderful!" "Astonishing!" "Marvelous!" "The Work of God!" "Miraculous!" "How can he do it?" and many like expressions were heard as the vast throng surged out of the Grand Opera House last night, after witnessing the most interesting exhibition of healing the sick ever performed in this part of the country.

There has never been a medical practitioner, or any other man in this town, who has attracted so much attention or has been the object of such universal praise as has been accorded this youthful healer since his advent here. He is the talk of the town. One hears and sees nothing but "Boy Phenomenon." He is the chief topic of conversation on the streets, in the stores, on the cars, in offices, at home—in fact, everywhere. His name, coupled with the marvelous cures he accomplished last night upon the stage, before hundreds of representative citizens of East Liverpool, has created an exciting episode in our city.

There were many of our most prominent and influential citizens in the audience, including leading physicians, lawyers, judges, and business men. As usual many were, no doubt, very skeptical when they went out, but all were of one mind when they went in, and that was that magnetism, as possessed by the "Boy Phenomenon," does undoubtedly possess most wonderful healing qualities. Tonight will occur the second and last public exhibition. Those who are interested in the work and all who are on crutches, the lame, deaf and sick, who wish to be cured, will be given front seats and treated free upon the stage. Admission free to all adults. About a dozen well known citizens were treated last night, suffering with as many different diseases, and by his wonderful life-giving magnetism restored paralyzed and rheumatic limbs to usefulness, made the deaf hear, the blind see and the lame walk, in each instance the patients demonstrating by their actions and testifying by words the great benefits derived. While there were many very remarkable cures performed, time prevents a more extended notice in this article, as the detailed report of the demonstration will be found in the local column. Suffice to say, he did all and more than his advertisement claimed for him. He certainly proved to the most exacting that he has some power by which he is enabled to effect wonderful transformations. Those who desire private treatment and are able to pay a small price to be treated, may call at the Thompson House any time during the next two weeks and receive consultation, examination and a thorough diagnosis, at which time the examining physician will decide if the case is curable, and if so, the price of treatment will be named. No free cases treated at the hotel. Those wishing free treatment must go to the Grand Opera House tonight. Office hours—10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except the Sabbath.

Has Gone to Join His Already Long List.

The Matter Should Have Been Closed Last Tuesday, but Homer Sutton Did Not Appear and Landlord Polk Thinks It Is Off. Allen Was the Promoter.

C. E. Allen, president of the defunct Ohio Clay Manufacturing company, president of the bank that never happened, and connected with the lumber business on paper, also expected to become interested in the sale of the Thompson House. The papers were signed several weeks ago, and the first payment was to have been made yesterday, but the property is still in possession of Landlord Polk.

Allen had been talking the matter of sale with Mr. Polk, and taking it as would the promoter of any plan said he would find a purchaser for the property. Soon afterward Homer Sutton, of Grove City, Pa., father of the young man who took stock in the Ohio Clay Manufacturing company and was made secretary by Allen, came to town. He wanted to buy the Thompson House, and the matter was arranged. The papers were duly signed, and Mr. Sutton was to pay $2,500 on the bargain last Tuesday. The same amount was to be paid in a week, and next November he was to pay $5,000. Arrangements were also made for the payment of the remainder of the purchase price.

When Allen disappeared owing Mr. Polk $50 he was not sure that the hotel would change hands, but he waited for developments until Tuesday. It is believed that Allen was to be a partner with Sutton in the hotel, and no one thinks the former had anything to do with the affairs of Allen or knew anything of him except as he appeared to Liverpool people.

Boyd at Niagara Falls, he being in a business house in this place, it is probable the revelation is more than a coincidence.

Yesterday a bill for $1 reached the city from Brick, a trade paper in Chicago. It was directed to Allen, and asked him to pay the subscription price of the paper. Among Allen's effects had been found before this time a card bearing the name of L. P. Allen as being connected with Brick. A telegram was sent to the paper asking if L. P. Allen was in its employ, and the answer came back that he was its traveling subscription agent. That ended the supposition that C. E. Allen had been acting in that capacity.

"Wonderful!" "Astonishing!" "Marvelous!" "The Work of God!" "Miraculous!" "How can he do it?" and many like expressions were heard as the vast throng surged out of the Grand Opera House last night, after witnessing the most interesting exhibition of healing the sick ever performed in this part of the country.

There has never been a medical practitioner, or any other man in this town, who has attracted so much attention or has been the object of such universal praise as has been accorded this youthful healer since his advent here. He is the talk of the town. One hears and sees nothing but "Boy Phenomenon." He is the chief topic of conversation on the streets, in the stores, on the cars, in offices, at home—in fact, everywhere. His name, coupled with the marvelous cures he accomplished last night upon the stage, before hundreds of representative citizens of East Liverpool, has created an exciting episode in our city.

There were many of our most prominent and influential citizens in the audience, including leading physicians, lawyers, judges, and business men. As usual, many were, no doubt, very skeptical when they went in, but all were of one mind when they went out, and that was that magnetism, as possessed by the "Boy Phenomenon," has and undoubtedly possess most wonderful healing qualities.

Tonight will occur the second and last public exhibition. Those who are interested in the work and all who are on crutches, the lame, deaf and sick, who wish to be cured, will be given front seats and treated free upon the stage. Admission free to all adults. About a dozen well known citizens were treated last night, suffering with as many different diseases, and by his wonderful life-giving magnetism restored paralyzed and rheumatic limbs to usefulness, made the deaf hear, the blind see and the lame walk. In each instance he did all and more, demonstrating by their actions and testifying by words the great benefits derived. While there were many remarkable cures performed, time prevents a more extended notice in this article, as the detailed report of the demonstration will be found in the local column. Suffice to say he did all and more, and his advertisement claimed for him. He certainly proved to the most exacting that he has some power by which he is enabled to effect wonderful transformations.

Those who desire private treatment and are able to pay a small price to be treated, may call at the Thompson House any time during the next two weeks and receive consultation, examination and a thorough diagnosis, at which time the examining physician will decide if the case is curable, and, if so, the price of treatment will be named. No free cases treated at the hotel. Those wishing free treatment must go to the Grand Opera House tonight. Office hours—10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except the Sabbath.

Congressman Alexander's Experience With an Alligator.

DESIGNS FOR LAFAYETTE COIN

Favored One Shows Profiles of Washington and the Marquis—Indians to Be Enlisted as Scouts For Our New Possessions—New Feature Added to Washington Society.

It is said in Washington that Representative Alexander of Buffalo did not embrace the opportunities to bathe in the limpid Floridian waters so freely offered during his recent voyage among the Florida keys on Dr. Pierce's boat, says the New York World. Those who know the congressman best are aware that he takes his morning plunge with as much pleasure as he draws his congressional salary. It is also known that during the closing days of congress he anticipated the pleasure of a long daily swim in the warm waters of some southern bay quite as much as any other feature offered by his coming vacation.

Friends of the congressman say that on the first morning out of Tampa, as the houseboat lay sheltered behind one of the coast islands, Mr. Alexander appeared on deck with his muscular form incased in a newly purchased costume, evidently with the intention of plunging into the briny. He was observed to poise himself carefully on the rail, but as he swayed lower and lower toward the limpid surface of the bay a shadow of uncertainty was seen to pass over his face; he clutched quickly at a stanchion, swung himself back to the deck and disappeared in his cabin. Soon sounds from within proclaimed that the colonel's ablutions were being performed among the much despised tubs.

Members of the party sauntered to the rail to learn the cause of the colonel's discomfort. It was found in all its unpleasant suggestiveness. Just beneath the surface lazily floated an enormous gator with expectant eye turned upward to the spot so recently graced by the member from Buffalo. It is said Mr. Alexander stuck to his tub during the remainder of the trip.

Secretary Gage and George E. Roberts, director of the mint, now have under consideration the designs for the Lafayette memorial dollars, 50,000 of which are soon to be minted by the United States and handed over to the Lafayette monument commission, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. Charles E. Barber, designer of the mint at Philadelphia, has submitted four separate designs.

No. 1 shows on one side of the coin the heads of Lafayette and Washington in double profile with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," forming a circle around them. The opposite side of this coin bears a picture of the proposed Lafayette monument with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 2 has on one side the profile of George Washington, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," on the other side a profile of Lafayette, with the words, "Monument to Lafayette; Erected Paris, France, 1900."

No. 3 bears on one side a profile of Lafayette and the dates 1757-1834, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," and on the reverse a figure of the proposed monument, with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 4 has on one side the profiles of Lafayette, Washington, Lincoln and Grant, each in a circle occupying one-fourth of the surface of the coin, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar." The reverse side has the same inscription as Nos. 1 and 3. It is probable that design No. 2 will be finally adopted by Secretary Gage, though there may be some modifications.

The war department has entered on a new departure in regard to enlistments in directing that able-bodied Indians be recruited for the regular army, says the New York Sun. Word to this effect has been sent to the Carlisle Indian school and to recruiting stations in the west. Some years ago the war department decided that the experiment of making soldiers out of Indians was a failure, and the few companies of redskins that had been formed were mustered out of the service.

The intention in regard to the new Indian recruits is to send them to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, where their superior knowledge of scouting and woodcraft would be of considerable benefit to the white soldiers. They will be regularly enlisted and required to engage in drills, marches and all the routine of a soldier's experience and will be distributed among various regiments.

Larz Anderson has added a new feature to Washington society by bringing a native from East India to lend color to his carriage on the avenues and give a dash of the picturesque to his wife's receptions, says the Chicago Times-Herald. He is likely to become as famous as the Russian droschky and its driver, owned by one of the wealthy Russian secretaries, or the brilliantly caparisoned attendant who accompanied a former German minister when he went calling and whose much plumed hat and other incidentals of livery drew the attention generally accorded a circus parade. These lowly servants are quite outdone, however, by Mr. Anderson's East India man. His costume is of a brilliant blue, topped by a much gilded fez, and his countenance betrays no more interest in things mundane, except the wants of his employers, than a statue, which he so closely represents.

Power.

It does not consist in any particular position. He who has it makes positions where none before existed. It does not largely lie in opportunity, but the man of power seizes and controls opportunities. It is not dependent on physical conditions in any great degree, but changes conditions to meet its need. It is not in voice or manner, not in expression or gesture, but back of all these and under all. Power lies in the inner soul. It is in consciousness, in the real self, and controls all faculties. Whoever has it seems to himself to be able to see more clearly, feel more intensely and act more determinedly. Strength comes to him, enthusiasm warms him, impulses drive him. Speak and act he must and will whatever may hinder. The strength seems to him to be that of some force not himself, and yet he holds it and uses it while it still holds and uses him.

Our New Possessions.

Deeper than the interest we have in the political future of Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines is the care we must have for their religious uplift. Already plans are maturing for our church to send its missionaries into the islands not before occupied by us. We have had a mission for some years in Honolulu, but none in the West Indies or the Philippines.

Magazines and illustrated papers have for months been filled with articles on these newly opened lands. It would be of much profit and awaken new life in the literary work of the League to spend an evening in a review of the religious condition and needs of these lands. Short papers or addresses by several members could without great labor be prepared and illustrated by maps and pictures cut from current periodicals. Even when one has read much there is a charm in having a condensation of facts gathered from many sources and placed in new language. The exercise will well repay those who do the work for all exertion they may expend.

Open Thon Mine Eyes.

Not what one reads with the eyes but what one sees with the soul is the valuable thing in Bible study. The illumination needed is not on the text, but on the human understanding. Often one has read a passage so frequently that it has become memorized and stereotyped and almost meaningless. Suddenly under some new stress of circumstances, danger, sorrow, helplessness or new found joy, the passage beams out as the flash of some great lighthouse far over the sea. The word grows luminous, the soul is flooded with pure radiance, and the eyes see as never before beauties and glories which no tongue can describe, but which one's own spirit eyes must behold if he is ever to comprehend. The finger of God has touched the eyes before blind or held and has opened the vision.

New Magazine.

For years there has been talk of an up to date Methodist magazine. Now the announcement is made that such a one is to be published in St. Louis. It will have two editors, one from the Church South and one from the Methodist Episcopal church.

Such a venture ten years ago would have been sure of a cordial greeting and had good prospect of success. Now the field has been so filled with cheap magazines with fine articles and profuse illustrations in the highest style of art that the attempt is more hazardous. It will need a large sum of money to insure it a place in the field already well filled.

Neighborly.

Canada needn't worry over the fact that she hasn't any army. Uncle Samuel will lend her one if any alien foe tries to invade her territory without her consent.—St. Louis Republic.

Return of the Raleigh.

[By an anonymous Missouri bard.] Here's to the Raleigh, bold and true, Her gallant captain and his crew! It makes you want to yell like sin To see a Dewey ship sail in! —New York World.

If men could know how quickly pain is spent, What compensations heaven has in keeping, What home means, after earth's bleak banishment— If only they would smile instead of weeping!

Sing louder, radiant host, wake our dull ears Till, though the path be hard and the day lonely, We, too, shall answer through the mist of tears "If only we have Thee, Lord—have Thee only!" —Susan Coolidge.

FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

International Convention Opened In Atlanta—Lesson Committee Next Meets In St. Louis.

ATLANTA, April 27.—The ninth international (fourteenth national) Sunday school convention began at the Grand Opera House and will continue until Sunday, when special services and massmeetings will be held in the city churches. Attending the convention are many of the most prominent Sunday school workers in the United States and the old world, and while there are only 1,500 authorized delegates the city is thronged with visitors. Special trains arrived at intervals.

The opera house was crowded when the second vice president, Hon. John M. Green of Atlanta, called the assemblage to order. Governor Allan D. Candler of Georgia welcomed the delegates to the state and former Governor William J. Northen extended the greetings on behalf of the churches and Sunday schools of Atlanta. Responses were made by the following gentlemen: For the north, R. A. Beard, Massachusetts; for Canada, Hon. S. H. Blake, Ontario; James O. Vance, D. D., Tennessee; for the colored people, Prof. M. F. Collier, Florida.

The international Sunday school lesson committee decided to hold the next annual meeting at St. Louis, April 18 next. The field workers were in session at the First Methodist church. A committee of six was appointed to confer with a committee from the main body regarding the election of officers, and the remainder of the day was devoted to the reading of officers' reports.

NOT BELIEVED BY ROOKER.

Don't Think There Will Be American Representative In College of Cardinals.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Rev. Dr. Rooker, secretary of the papal legation in this city, was asked by a reporter regarding rumors that are in general circulation concerning the appointment of a representative of the United States in the college of cardinals at Rome. Dr. Rooker replied:

"I have lately read numerous rumors relating to various changes of this kind, but, so far as I know, there is absolutely no foundation for any of them. Twelve years ago there was considerable talk of having a representative of the United States in the college of cardinals, and I believe there was a greater possibility of it then than there is at present. I have no idea that any such action will be taken, but I know nothing of it. There are 20 vacancies in the college of cardinals, and the pope may fill many of them next month. But no one can anticipate what his action will be."

CHRISTIAN CHURCH CONGRESS.

Some of the Subjects Discussed at Second Day's Session.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—The second day's session of the national congress of the Disciples of Christ at the First Christian church was taken up with the reading of papers, followed by a general discussion of each. Rev. J. J. Haley, pastor of the First church of Cynthia, Ky., discussed "The scope and significance of the cry 'Back to Christ' in modern religious thought."

A series of papers having for their general subject city evangelization were read by Revs. J. A. Lord, George F. Hall, E. E. Bagby, J. H. C. Smith, W. E. Ellis, B. L. Smith and L. H. McPherson, who touched on its different phases.

Catholic Propaganda Alumni Met.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The annual meeting of the American Alumni of the Propaganda at Rome was held here. The alumni association consists of the graduates of the Catholic college in Rome. The meeting was brief and was followed by a banquet. Later Monsignor Martinelli, papal delegate, and Archbishop Ryan held a reception. Rev. Dr. James F. Laughlin, chancellor of the Philadelphia diocese, being the guest of honor. Dr. Laughlin will today be invested with the monsignorate at the cathedral.

Rev. Father McCann Dead.

ALTOONA, Pa., April 27.—Rev. Father J. F. McCann of Chest Springs is dead. Mass will be held today. Remains will be taken to Newark, N. J., in the afternoon. He died from a complication of diseases and was sick for about two months. He was aged about 35 years. He was pastor two years at Chest Springs and was formerly at McKeesport.

FUNERAL SHIP ARRIVED.

Relatives Can Have Bodies Sent Wherever They Wish—Remains of 356 Brought Back.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Another shipload of the bodies of American soldiers who were killed or died in the Cuban and Porto Rican campaigns was brought into this harbor by the transport Crook. This time 356 coffins are piled in rows upon the vessel's decks. Ninety-eight of these bodies were taken up in Porto Rico, 12 at Guantanamo and 246 at Santiago. They have been identified as far as possible.

Those bodies which, in spite of the greatest care have remained unidentified, will be buried with their fellows in Arlington cemetery. The others will be forwarded by the government to relatives in any part of the country who desire to bury their dead elsewhere than in the national cemetery.

Monetary Legislation Committee.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 27.—The committee on monetary legislation, appointed by a caucus of the Republican members of the national house of representatives, which convened here on April 17, is rapidly completing its plan of monetary legislation.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Congressman Alexander's Experience With an Alligator.

DESIGNS FOR LAFAYETTE COIN

Favored One Shows Profiles of Washington and the Marquis—Indians to Be Enlisted as Scouts for Our New Possessions—New Feature Added to Washington Society.

It is said in Washington that Representative Alexander of Buffalo did not embrace the opportunities to bathe in the limpid Floridian waters so freely offered during his recent voyage around the Florida keys on Dr. Pierce's boat, says the New York World. Those who know the congressman best are aware that he takes his morning plunge with as much pleasure as he draws his congressional salary. It is also known that during the closing days of congress he anticipated the pleasure of a long daily swim in the warm waters of some southern bay quite as much as any other feature offered by his coming vacation.

Friends of the congressman say that on the first morning out of Tampa, as the houseboat lay sheltered behind one of the coast islands, Mr. Alexander appeared on deck with his muscular form incased in a newly purchased costume, evidently with the intention of plunging into the briny. He was observed to poise himself carefully on the rail, but as he swayed lower and lower toward the limp surface of the bay a shadow of uncertainty was seen to pass over his face; he clutched quickly at a stanchion, swung himself back to the deck and disappeared in his cabin. Soon sounds from within proclaimed that the colonel's ablutions were being performed among the much despised tubs.

Members of the party sauntered to the rail to learn the cause of the colonel's discomfiture. It was found in all its unpleasant suggestiveness. Just beneath the surface lazily floated an enormous gator with expectant eye turned upward to the spot so recently graced by the member from Buffalo. It is said Mr. Alexander stuck to his tub during the remainder of the trip.

Secretary Gage and George E. Roberts, director of the mint, now have under consideration the designs for the Lafayette memorial dollars, 50,000 of which are soon to be minted by the United States and handed over to the Lafayette monument commission, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. Charles E. Barber, designer of the mint at Philadelphia, has submitted four separate designs.

No. 1 shows on one side of the coin the heads of Lafayette and Washington in double profile with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," forming a circle around them. The opposite side of this coin bears a picture of the proposed Lafayette monument with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 2 has on one side the profile of George Washington, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," on the other side a profile of Lafayette, with the words, "Monument to Lafayette; Erected Paris, France, 1900."

No. 3 bears on one side a profile of Lafayette and the dates 1757-1834, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," and on the reverse a figure of the proposed monument, with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 4 has on one side the profiles of Lafayette, Washington, Lincoln and Grant, each in a circle occupying one-fourth of the surface of the coin, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar." The reverse side has the same inscription as Nos. 1 and 3. It is probable that design No. 2 will be finally adopted by Secretary Gage, though there may be some modifications.

The war department has entered on a new departure in regard to enlistments in directing that able-bodied Indians be recruited for the regular army, says the New York Sun. Word to this effect has been sent to the Carlisle Indian school and to recruiting stations in the west. Some years ago the war department decided that the experiment of making soldiers out of Indians was a failure, and the few companies of redskins that had been formed were mustered out of the service.

The intention in regard to the new Indian recruits is to send them to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, where their superior knowledge of scouting and woodcraft would be of considerable benefit to the white soldiers. They will be regularly enlisted and required to engage in drills, marches and all the routine of a soldier's experience and will be distributed among various regiments.

Larz Anderson has added a new feature to Washington society by bringing a native from East India to lend color to his carriage on the avenues and give a dash of the picturesque to his wife's receptions, says the Chicago Times-Herald. He is likely to become as famous as the Russian droschky and its driver, owned by one of the wealthy Russian secretaries, or the brilliantly caparisoned attendant who accompanied a former German minister when he went calling and whose much plumed hat and other incidentals of livery drew the attention generally accorded a circus parade. These lowly servants are quite outdone, however, by Mr. Anderson's East India man. His costume is of a brilliant blue, topped by a much gilded fez, and his countenance betrays no more interest in things mundane, except the wants of his employers, than a statue, which he so closely represents.

Power.

It does not consist in any particular position. He who has it makes positions where none before existed. It does not largely lie in opportunity, but the man of power seizes and controls opportunities. It is not dependent on physical conditions in any great degree, but changes conditions to meet its need. It is not in voice or manner, not in expression or gesture, but back of all these and under all. Power lies in the inner soul. It is in consciousness, in the real self, and controls all faculties. Whoever has it seems to himself to be able to see more clearly, feel more intensely and act more determinedly. Strength comes to him, enthusiasm warms him, impulses drive him. Speak and act he must and will whatever may hinder. The strength seems to him to be that of some force not himself, and yet he holds it and uses it while it still holds and uses him.

Our New Possessions.

Deeper than the interest we have in the political future of Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines is the care we must have for their religious uplift. Already plans are maturing for our church to send its missionaries into the islands not before occupied by us. We have had a mission for some years in Honolulu, but none in the West Indies or the Philippines.

Magazines and illustrated papers have for months been filled with articles on these newly opened lands. It would be of much profit and awaken new life in the literary work of the League to spend an evening in a review of the religious condition and needs of these lands. Short papers or addresses by several members could without great labor be prepared and illustrated by maps and pictures cut from current periodicals. Even when one has read much there is a charm in having a condensation of facts gathered from many sources and placed in new language. The exercise will well repay those who do the work for all exertion they may expend.

Open Thon Mine Eyes.

Not what one reads with the eyes but what one sees with the soul is the valuable thing in Bible study. The illumination needed is not on the text, but on the human understanding. Often one has read a passage so frequently that it has become memorized and stereotyped and almost meaningless. Suddenly under some new stress of circumstances, danger, sorrow, helplessness or new found joy, the passage beams out as the flash of some great lighthouse far over the sea. The word grows luminous, the soul is flooded with pure radiance, and the eyes see as never before beauties and glories which no tongue can describe, but which one's own spirit eyes must behold if he is ever to comprehend. The finger of God has touched the eyes before blind or held and has opened the vision.

New Magazine.

For years there has been talk of an up to date Methodist magazine. Now the announcement is made that such a one is to be published in St. Louis. It will have two editors, one from the Church South and one from the Methodist Episcopal church.

Such a venture ten years ago would have been sure of a cordial greeting and had good prospect of success. Now the field has been so filled with cheap magazines with fine articles and profuse illustrations in the highest style of art that the attempt is more hazardous. It will need a large sum of money to insure it a place in the field already well filled.

Neighborly.

Canada needn't worry over the fact that she hasn't any army. Uncle Samuel will lend her one if any alien foe tries to invade her territory without her consent.—St. Louis Republic.

If men could know how quickly pain is spent, What compensations heaven has in keeping, What home means, after earth's bleak banishment— If only they would smile instead of weeping!

Sing louder, radiant host, wake our dull ears Till, though the path be hard and the day lonely, We, too, shall answer through the mist of tears "If only we have Thee, Lord—have Thee only!" —Susan Coolidge.

NOT BELIEVED BY ROOKER.

Don't Think There Will Be American Representative In College of Cardinals.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Rev. Dr. Rooker, secretary of the papal legation in this city, was asked by a reporter regarding rumors that are in general circulation concerning the appointment of a representative of the United States in the college of cardinals at Rome. Dr. Rooker replied:

"I have lately read numerous rumors relating to various changes of this kind, but, so far as I know, there is absolutely no foundation for any of them. Twelve years ago there was considerable talk of having a representative of the United States in the college of cardinals, and I believe there was a greater possibility of it then than there is at present. I have no idea that any such action will be taken, but I know nothing of it. There are 20 vacancies in the college of cardinals, and the pope may fill many of them next month. But no one can anticipate what his action will be."

CHRISTIAN CHURCH CONGRESS.

Some of the Subjects Discussed at Second Day's Session.

LOUIS, April 27.—The second day's session of the national congress of the Disciples of Christ at the First Christian church was taken up with the reading of papers, followed by a general discussion of each. A series of papers evangelizing for their general subject city evangelization were read by Revs. J. A. Lord, George F. Hall, E. E. Bagby, J. H. C. Smith, W. E. Ellis, B. L. Smith and L. H. McPherson, who touched on its different phases.

Catholic Propaganda Alumni Met.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The annual meeting of the American Alumni of the Propaganda at Rome was held here. The alumni association consists of the graduates of the Catholic college in Rome. He died from a complication of diseases and was sick for about two months. He was aged about 35 years. He was pastor two years at Chest Springs and was formerly at McKeesport.

FUNERAL SHIP ARRIVED.

Relatives Can Have Bodies Sent Wherever They Wish—Remains of 356 Brought Back.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Another shipload of the bodies of American soldiers who were killed or died in the Cuban and Porto Rican campaigns was brought into this harbor by the transport Crook. This time 356 coffins are piled in rows upon the vessel's decks. Ninety-eight of these bodies were taken up in Porto Rico, 12 at Guantanamo and 246 at Santiago. They have been identified as far as possible.

Those bodies which, in spite of the greatest care have remained unidentified, will be buried with their fellows in Arlington cemetery. The others will be forwarded by the government to relatives in any part of the country who desire to bury their dead elsewhere than in the national cemetery.

Monetary Legislation Committee.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 27.—The committee on monetary legislation, appointed by a caucus of the Republican members of the national house of representatives, which convened here on April 17, is rapidly completing its plan of monetary legislation.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Congressman Alexander's Experience With an Alligator.

DESIGNS FOR LAFAYETTE COIN

Favored One Shows Profiles of Washington and the Marquis—Indians to Be Enlisted as Scouts For Our New Possessions—New Feature Added to Washington Society.

It is said in Washington that Representative Alexander of Buffalo did not embrace the opportunities to bathe in the limpid Floridian waters so freely offered during his recent voyage among the Florida keys on Dr. Pierce's boat, says the New York World. Those who know the congressman best are aware that he takes his morning plunge with as much pleasure as he draws his congressional salary. It is also known that during the closing days of congress he anticipated the pleasure of a long daily swim in the warm waters of some southern bay quite as much as any other feature offered by his coming vacation.

Friends of the congressman say that on the first morning out of Tampa, as the houseboat lay sheltered behind one of the coast islands, Mr. Alexander appeared on deck with his muscular form incased in a newly purchased costume, evidently with the intention of plunging into the briny. He was observed to poise himself carefully on the rail, but as he swayed lower and lower toward the limpid surface of the bay a shadow of uncertainty was seen to pass over his face; he clutched quickly at a stanchion, swung himself back to the deck and disappeared in his cabin. Soon sounds from within proclaimed that the colonel's ablutions were being performed among the much despised tubs.

Members of the party sauntered to the rail to learn the cause of the colonel's discomfiture. It was found in all its unpleasant suggestiveness. Just beneath the surface lazily floated an enormous gator with expectant eye turned upward to the spot so recently graced by the member from Buffalo. It is said Mr. Alexander stuck to his tub during the remainder of the trip.

Secretary Gage and George E. Roberts, director of the mint, now have under consideration the designs for the Lafayette memorial dollars, 50,000 of which are soon to be minted by the United States and handed over to the Lafayette monument commission, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. Charles E. Barber, designer of the mint at Philadelphia, has submitted four separate designs.

No. 1 shows on one side of the coin the heads of Lafayette and Washington in double profile with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," forming a circle around them. The opposite side of this coin bears a picture of the proposed Lafayette monument with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 2 has on one side the profile of George Washington, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," on the other side a profile of Lafayette, with the words, "Monument to Lafayette; Erected Paris, France, 1900."

No. 3 bears on one side a profile of Lafayette and the dates 1757-1834, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," and on the reverse a figure of the proposed monument, with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 4 has on one side the profiles of Lafayette, Washington, Lincoln and Grant, each in a circle occupying one-fourth of the surface of the coin, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar." The reverse side has the same inscription as Nos. 1 and 3. It is probable that design No. 2 will be finally adopted by Secretary Gage, though there may be some modifications.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours and union labor employed.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a hat from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labels may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of scab or union labor.

OUR CONSULAR SERVICE

President Angell Discusses Defects of America's System.

URGES AGITATION FOR CHANGES.

says the United States Needs Trained Men in the Orient—Political Pull should Be No Factor—Great Britain's Excellent Method—Future of China's Trade.

President James B. Angell of the University of Michigan the other night urged the members of the Bankers' club of Chicago to do something toward bettering the consular service of the United States. The betterment of this service was the subject of his address which followed the dinner at the Grand Pacific hotel. President Harper of the University of Chicago was called for by the members, but he declined to speak. Dr. Angell discussed both the good and the bad features of the consular service as it exists today, praising many of the men, but deprecating the system. He carried through his address

a vein of humorous raillery at the plans of office seeking diplomats and the appointments which resulted.

President Angell was introduced by Chairman Laren. He said in part:

"We are all rejoicing over the fact we have surpassed even Great Britain in our export trade and are able now to compete with foreign firms in foreign markets. We have awakened to the fact we are a Pacific as well as an Atlantic ocean state. No one knows what is going to happen in China, but it is certain in that country the era of the railway has come. Their absence has always been the great obstacle to trade with the interior, and their coming opens limitless possibilities in traffic in cotton, petroleum and lumber.

"Our commercial necessities in all foreign countries call for the best consular service we can devise. At present it is lacking, and it behooves such organizations as this to use pressure on congress to improve it. The good consul should be familiar at least with our business methods, have some knowledge of law and be acquainted with the language of the country. He should, besides, be a man of high character and breeding. Sometimes, by good luck, men of this character are appointed, but usually they are named with no regard to these qualifications. They are men who have carried wards in a close election or cast the deciding vote in a senatorial contest.

"There is another evil in that we do not allow them sufficient permanency in their locations. They need this above all else to be of the greatest service. We need many new provisions in the methods of supplying our consuls with American born interpreters. At present most of them know only the English language, and they are at the mercy of unscrupulous natives who use their connection with the consulate for the extortion of money.

"Great Britain's young men are thoroughly and wisely trained. The service gets the flower of the English youth because the appointment assures a career during good behavior. The result is that nation has the best service on the Chinese coast. It is all simple, but we don't do it. It would be efficacious even to offer young men this chance of a career, with the provision they pay their own expenses. There are hundreds of the brightest in the country who would jump at the chance, but all attempts to get congress to remedy this matter have been in vain.

"We have undertaken to administer extra territorial justice in the orient with this class of incompetent men. The statutes even are defective, and these appointees sitting in judgment are given power to supply the deficiencies themselves. Myself and several other ex-ministers once attempted to remedy the evil, but there was no politics in our plan, and we failed. There is not even a jail in China into which the condemned Americans we forbid the Chinese from taking may be held and punished.

"Looking on the events of the last year, I hope to see some speedy improvement. I cannot help hoping congress will now be awakened. But it never will be done unless bodies of men like you rouse yourselves first and make four opinions felt. The same thing is true of the administrative offices of these new countries if we are to govern them well. If we are going to undertake foreign administration, we must have trained men, not ward heelers."—Chicago Tribune.

THE SURGEON WAS PUZZLED

Dr. McGee Was a Good Worker, but She Didn't Know Pyjamas.

An army order directed to a woman is something novel in war department routine. One has been issued as follows:

"By direction of the acting secretary of war, Acting Assistant Surgeon Anita Newcomb McGee, United States army, will proceed from Washington to Fort Monroe, Va., on official business pertaining to the medical department and on completion of this duty will return to Washington, D. C. The travel enjoined is necessary for the public service. By command of Major General Miles, H. C. Corbin, adjutant general."

The only woman who received a commission in the United States army during the war with Spain was Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee. The doctor is a talented woman, daughter of Professor Newcomb and wife of Professor McGee, the ethnologist. When the war began an executive committee of the Daughters of the Revolution was formed to aid the war department in the matter of trained nurses and in the care of the wounded and sick. This committee

quickly manifested such intelligent zeal in the work that it was recognized by the war department, and Dr. McGee, the head of it, was given a commission. The committee was indefatigable and developed unexpected capacity for the duties it assumed.

There were some things, however, which Acting Assistant Surgeon McGee, smart as she was, had to learn. The war opened with a rush, and there were pressing demands. Up from Tampa one day came a message from the medical officer in charge of a division hospital telling what the department could do for the relief of the sick. The message mentioned lemons and a lot of things which would be acceptable to the invalid soldiers, including pyjamas. In due course the message was forwarded to Dr. McGee and her committee. Her promptness was a characteristic of the relief work. Orders were issued right and left for the desired supplies. All went well until one item on the list was reached. Dr. McGee came with wrinkled brow to her scientist husband and, holding out the message, asked in a perplexed tone, "Professor, what are pyjamas?"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat

HAYES' FUNERAL PICNIC.

Dancing and Feasting Two Years After Death, According to His Will.

A most novel funeral exercise was held at White Oak, 12 miles east of Petersburg, Ind., the other afternoon. Two years ago William Hayes died, leaving a large estate, a part being 1,000 acres of valuable land. During life he was very eccentric in his habits, one feature being that for the past 50 years he was never seen in public without being gayly decorated with pictures and ribbons and for years called himself "Pike County Bill" Hayes.

According to the provisions of his will, his body was to be taken up and placed in a vault two years from his death, which was the other day. In addition to this the trees in the park where the remains were placed were to be decorated with red, white and blue ribbons, five platforms for dancing were to be erected, two brass bands were to furnish the music, and the crowd present were to be feasted on five head of cattle, 20 head of sheep and a large number of hogs and chickens. Fifty kegs of beer were to be dispensed to the crowd, and for failure to carry out the above provisions of the will Pierce Hayes, his only child, was to be disinherited.

A crowd of 2,000 persons were in attendance, and the terms of the will were fully complied with.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Church Car For Central Asia.

With the object of spreading the doctrines of the orthodox church in central Asia, the British government has, according to The Turkestan Messenger, caused a special church car to be built for use on the Central Asiatic railway, which will shortly be open for regular traffic as far east as Andijan. A chaplain will travel in charge of the car, which will be detached from the trains and again attached, according to the requirements of the towns on the line of the railway. It will shortly be formally consecrated at Tashkend.—Cor. London Post.

HANGING AS A FINE ART.

Expert Who Executed Durrant Gives Testimony in a Trial.

Hanging as a fine art was the theme of a general discussion that amused and instructed the court and jury in the Brandes trial at Oakland. Amos Lunt and B. S. Brown, a brace of as mild mannered men as ever swung a fellow being into eternity, gave the dissertation on the correct thing in the way of shooting a victim through the gallows trap.

They were called by the defense to tell what they knew about the condition of the neck of a corpse after it had been suspended at the end of a rope for a couple of hours. But when that question was answered the gentle calling of a public executioner was exploited from various points of view.

B. S. Brown, who is a guard in San Quentin prison, came into prominence as the man who sent Durrant into another world. He has assisted in three executions during his time and knows a thing or two about the necks of his fellow men.

"Does a frothing at the mouth always accompany hanging?" asked Attorney Bennett.

"Not always," replied Brown.

"What happened in the case of Durrant?"

"Oh, he frothed at the mouth all right!"

"How long did it take Durrant's features to sink into repose after death?"

"Oh, about four hours!"

"How long was he hanging?"

"About 20 minutes. I was there all the time and assisted in burning the rope."

During this gruesome testimony Brandes sat like a man in a trance. It was a peculiar situation, that of a man on trial on a charge of murder facing the hangman.

Amos Lunt, who until a short time ago was a guard at the San Quentin prison, took the stand. He apparently takes a hanging as a joke.

"How thick is the rope used at executions?" was asked.

"Well, at first it is about an inch in diameter, but when it is ready for the victim it is about seven-eighths of an inch. You see, we stretch and harden it before we attach it to the gallows. A thin neck is the easiest to break by hanging. It is hard to hang a man with a short, fat neck and make a neat job of it."

"How do you gauge the distance of the drop?" asked Assistant District Attorney Melville.

"Well, it all depends on the height of the victim. Now, you are a big man, 6 feet in height, and weigh over 200 pounds. If I was hanging you, I would give you about a 5 foot 8 drop."

Every one laughed except Brandes.—San Francisco Call.

Croquet is the most interesting feature in the way of games now in Hazel Green, Ky., and the young folks are enjoying it immensely.—Hazel Green (Ky.) Herald.

Trust in God.

O Lord, how happy should we be If we could cast our care on Thee; If we from self could rest And feel at heart that One above In perfect wisdom, perfect love, Is working for the best!

Could we but kneel and cast our load, E'en while we pray, upon our God, Then rise with lightened cheer, Sure that our Father, who is nigh To hear the ravens when they cry, Will His own children hear?

Lord, make these faithless hearts of ours Such lessons learn from birds and flowers; Make them from self to cease; Leave all things to a Father's will And, on His mercy leaning still, Find the eternal peace.

The woman who is weak, nervous, tired and exhausted; who has a poor and variable appetite and no strength or nerve; who suffers from pains and aches, dragging down and burning sensations; and who recognizes, herself, that she has become irritable, cross, blue and despondent, is in almost every case suffering from weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity.

Thousands of women suffer in this way and do not recognize the cause, or if they do understand their condition, neglect it rather than submit to the obnoxious examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the average physician. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for women who suffer in this way. It does away with the necessity for these trying ordeals, and may be used in the privacy of the home. It acts directly on the delicate organs concerned, and makes them strong, vigorous and healthy. It banishes the discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It transforms weak, nervous, petulant invalids into happy wives and mothers. Thousands of women have testified, over their own signatures, to this fact. The "Favorite Prescription" may be procured from any good medicine dealer. Any woman who will write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., may have the advice of an eminent and skillful specialist without charge.

Mrs. Cora M. McLaurin, of Rockport, Copiah Co., Miss., writes: "I had displacement and inflammation of the uterus. I was under the treatment of our family physician for a long time, but received no benefit. I had falling of internal organs with ulceration and enlargement. I commenced using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' Pleasant Pellets' and 'Extract of Smart-Weed.' From the first day I began to improve, and in a short time I was able to do all my housework. If it had not been for your medicines I would have been dead long ago."

Stomach and liver troubles with sluggish action of the bowels are cured by Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

President Angell Discusses Defects of America's System.

Says the United States Needs Trained Men in the Orient—Political Pull should Be No Factor—Great Britain's Excellent Method—Future of China's Trade.

President James B. Angell of the University of Michigan the other night urged the members of the Bankers' club of Chicago to do something toward bettering the consular service of the United States. The betterment of this service was the subject of his address which followed the dinner at the Grand Pacific hotel. President Harper of the University of Chicago was called for by the members, but he declined to speak. Dr. Angell discussed both the good and the bad features of the consular service as it exists today, praising many of the men, but deprecating the system. He carried through his address

Dr. McGee Was a Good Worker, but She Didn't Know Pyjamas.

An army order directed to a woman is something novel in war department routine. One has been issued as follows: "By direction of the acting secretary of war, Acting Assistant Surgeon Anita Newcomb McGee, United States army, will proceed from Washington to Fort Monroe, Va., on official business pertaining to the medical department and on completion of this duty will return to Washington, D. C. The travel enjoined is necessary for the public service. By command of Major General Miles, H. C. Corbin, adjutant general." The only woman who received a commission in the United States army during the war with Spain was Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee. The doctor is a talented woman, daughter of Professor Newcomb and wife of Professor McGee, the ethnologist. When the war began an executive committee of the Daughters of the Revolution was formed to aid the war department in the matter of trained nurses and in the care of the wounded and sick. HANGING AS A FINE ART.

Expert Who Executed Durrant Gives Testimony in a Trial.

Hanging as a fine art was the theme of a general discussion that amused and instructed the court and jury in the Brandes trial at Oakland. Amos Lunt and B. S. Brown, a brace of as mild mannered men as ever swung a fellow being into eternity, gave the dissertation on the correct thing in the way of shooting a victim through the gallows' trap.

They were called by the defense to tell what they knew about the condition of the neck of a corpse after it had been suspended at the end of a rope for a couple of hours. But when that question was answered the gentle calling of a public executioner was exploited from various points of view.

B. S. Brown, who is a guard in San Quentin prison, came into prominence as the man who sent Durrant into another world. He has assisted in three executions during his time and knows a thing or two about the necks of his fellow men.

"Does a frothing at the mouth always accompany hanging?" asked Attorney Bennett.

"Not always," replied Brown.

"What happened in the case of Durrant?"

"Oh, he frothed at the mouth all right!"

"How long did it take Durrant's features to sink into repose after death?"

"Oh, about four hours!"

"How long was he hanging?"

"About 20 minutes. I was there all the time and assisted in burning the rope."

During this gruesome testimony Brandes sat like a man in a trance. It was a peculiar situation, that of a man on trial on a charge of murder facing the hangman.

Amos Lunt, who until a short time ago was a guard at the San Quentin prison, took the stand. He apparently takes a hanging as a joke.

"How thick is the rope used at executions?" was asked.

"Well, at first it is about an inch in diameter, but when it is ready for the victim it is about seven-eighths of an inch. You see, we stretch and harden it before we attach it to the gallows. A thin neck is the easiest to break by hanging. It is hard to hang a man with a short, fat neck and make a neat job of it."

"How do you gauge the distance of the drop?" asked Assistant District Attorney Melville.

"Well, it all depends on the height of the victim. Now, you are a big man, 6 feet in height, and weigh over 200 pounds. If I was hanging you, I would give you about a 5 foot 8 drop."

Every one laughed except Brandes.—San Francisco Call.

Trust In God.

O Lord, how happy should we be If we could cast our care on Thee; If we from self could rest And feel at heart that One above In perfect wisdom, perfect love, Is working for the best!

Could we but kneel and cast our load, E'en while we pray, upon our God, Then rise with lightened cheer, Sure that our Father, who is nigh To hear the ravens when they cry, Will His own children hear?

Lord, make these faithless hearts of ours Such lessons learn from birds and flowers; Make them from self to cease; Leave all things to a Father's will And, on His mercy leaning still, Find the eternal peace.

The woman who is weak, nervous, tired and exhausted; who has a poor and variable appetite and no strength or nerve; who suffers from pains and aches, dragging down and burning sensations; and who recognizes, herself, that she has become irritable, cross, blue and despondent, is in almost every case suffering from weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity.

Thousands of women suffer in this way and do not recognize the cause, or if they do understand their condition, neglect it rather than submit to the obnoxious examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the average physician. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for women who suffer in this way. It does away with the necessity for these trying ordeals, and may be used in the privacy of the home. It acts directly on the delicate organs concerned, and makes them strong, vigorous and healthy. It banishes the discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It transforms weak, nervous, petulant invalids into happy wives and mothers. Thousands of women have testified, over their own signatures, to this fact. The "Favorite Prescription" may be procured from any good medicine dealer. Any woman who will write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., may have the advice of an eminent and skillful specialist without charge.

Mrs. Cora M. McLaurin, of Rockport, Copiah Co., Miss., writes: "I had displacement and inflammation of the uterus. I was under the treatment of our family physician for a long time, but received no benefit. I had falling of internal organs with ulceration and enlargement. I commenced using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Pleasant Pellets' and 'Extract of Smart-Weed.' From the first day I began to improve, and in a short time I was able to do all my housework. If it had not been for your medicines I would have been dead long ago."

The betterment of this service was the subject of his address which followed the dinner at the Grand Pacific hotel. Dr. Angell discussed both the good and the bad features of the consular service as it exists today, praising many of the men, but deprecating the system. He carried through his address

President Angell was introduced by Chairman Laren. He said in part:

"We are all rejoicing over the fact we have surpassed even Great Britain in our export trade and are able now to compete with foreign firms in foreign markets. We have awakened to the fact we are a Pacific as well as an Atlantic ocean state. No one knows what is going to happen in China, but it is certain in that country the era of the railway has come. Their absence has always been the great obstacle to trade with the interior, and their coming opens limitless possibilities in traffic in cotton, petroleum and lumber.

"Our commercial necessities in all foreign countries call for the best consular service we can devise. At present it is lacking, and it behooves such organizations as this to use pressure on congress to improve it. The good consul should be familiar at least with our business methods, have some knowledge of law and be acquainted with the language of the country. He should, besides, be a man of high character and breeding. Sometimes, by good luck, men of this character are appointed, but usually they are named with no regard to these qualifications. They are men who have carried wards in a close election or cast the deciding vote in a senatorial contest.

"There is another evil in that we do not allow them sufficient permanency in their locations. They need this above all else to be of the greatest service. We need many new provisions in the methods of supplying our consuls with American born interpreters. At present most of them know only the English language, and they are at the mercy of unscrupulous natives who use their connection with the consulate for the extortion of money.

"Great Britain's young men are thoroughly and wisely trained. The service gets the flower of the English youth because the appointment assures a career during good behavior. The result is that nation has the best service on the Chinese coast. It is all simple, but we don't do it. It would be efficacious even to offer young men this chance of a career, with the provision they pay their own expenses. There are hundreds of the brightest in the country who would jump at the chance, but all attempts to get congress to remedy this matter have been in vain.

"We have undertaken to administer extra territorial justice in the orient with this class of incompetent men. The statutes even are defective, and these appointees sitting in judgment are given power to supply the deficiencies themselves. Myself and several other ex-ministers once attempted to remedy the evil, but there was no politics in our plan, and we failed. There is not even a jail in China into which the condemned Americans we forbid the Chinese from taking may be held and punished.

"Looking on the events of the last year, I hope to see some speedy improvement. I cannot help hoping congress will now be awakened. But it never will be done unless bodies of men like you rouse yourselves first and make your opinions felt. The same thing is true of the administrative offices of these new countries if we are to govern them well. If we are going to under-

quickly manifested such intelligent zeal in the work that it was recognized by the war department, and Dr. McGee, the head of it, was given a commission. The committee was indefatigable and developed unexpected capacity for the duties it assumed.

There were some things, however, which Acting Assistant Surgeon McGee, smart as she was, had to learn. The war opened with a rush, and there were pressing demands. Up from Tampa one day came a message from the medical officer in charge of a division hospital telling what the department could do for the relief of the sick. The message mentioned lemons and a lot of things which would be acceptable to the invalid soldiers, including pyjamas. In due course the message was forwarded to Dr. McGee and her committee. Her promptness was a characteristic of the relief work. Orders were issued right and left for the desired supplies. All went well until one item on the list was reached. Dr. McGee came with wrinkled brow to her scientist husband and, holding out the message, asked in a perplexed tone, "Professor, what are pyjamas?"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat

HAYES' FUNERAL PICNIC.

A most novel funeral exercise was held at White Oak, 12 miles east of Petersburg, Ind., the other afternoon. Two years ago William Hayes died, leaving a large estate, a part being 1,000 acres of valuable land. During life he was very eccentric in his habits, one feature being that for the past 50 years he was never seen in public without being gayly decorated with pictures and ribbons and for years called himself "Pike County Bill" Hayes.

According to the provisions of his will, his body was to be taken up and placed in a vault two years from his death, which was the other day. In addition to this the trees in the park where the remains were placed were to be decorated with red, white and blue ribbons, five platforms for dancing were to be erected, two brass bands were to furnish the music, and the crowd present were to be feasted on five head of cattle, 20 head of sheep and a large number of hogs and chickens. Fifty kegs of beer were to be dispensed to the crowd, and for failure to carry out the above provisions of the will Pierce Hayes, his only child, was to be disinherited.

A crowd of 2,000 persons were in attendance, and the terms of the will were fully complied with.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Church Car For Central Asia.

With the object of spreading the doctrines of the orthodox church in central Asia, the British government has, according to The Turkestan Messenger, caused a special church car to be built for use on the Central Asiatic railway, which will shortly be open for regular traffic as far east as Andijan. A chaplain will travel in charge of the car, which will be detached from the trains and again attached, according to the requirements of the towns on the line of the railway. It will shortly be formally consecrated at Tashkend.—Cor. London Post.

THE Boston Store News.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN WEEKS we are without a mechanic in the store. The carpenters, the tinnerns, the painters, the plumbers, the electricians and the paper hangers have finished their work and gone, leaving our storeroom improved an hundred fold. This is very good as far as it goes, but after all is not the most important item in successful retail merchandising. The paramount essential to a successful and ever expanding dry goods business is large and choice assortment of goods at the right prices. While the embellishment of the store was going on, those in charge of the different departments were not idle, but gathering together the very best merchandise in the market at the lowest possible prices, until today we can show you a stock of dry-goods that we conscientiously believe is a credit to East Liverpool as well as to The Boston Store. Lest you might think this a prejudiced opinion, we will give you an opportunity of judging for yourself of its correctness, and right here and now extend to you a hearty invitation to come and see, not only the store improvements, but examine and price (whether you buy or not) our stock of spring drygoods.

Friday, April 28, 1899, Opening and Souvenir Day, You Are Invited.

Friday will be the formal opening day of the season at this store, and the beginning also of a Special One Week's Sale of the choicest kind of spring merchandise. Every department will add its quota to this grand display and sale of spring goods. Special drives all over the store. We want you to come Friday and inspect the offerings for yourself. You will not be importuned to buy. However, should you have any needs, we shall be pleased to supply them.

A PRETTY SOUVENIR

will be presented to each visitor Friday. These will be given out in the Drapery and Lace Curtain Room. As already stated, this special sale will last for one week, beginning Friday morning, April 28, and closing Thursday evening, May 4. Souvenirs on Friday only.

FIVE PER CENT TO THE HOSPITAL FUND.

We believe East Liverpool needs an hospital. We believe she will have one in the near future. We wish to help the good project along, and encourage the ladies and gentlemen who are working hard to attain this laudable end. Therefore, we will subscribe to the hospital fund 5 per cent of the total cash sales for the week beginning Friday morning, April 28, and ending Thursday evening, May 4. In other words, of every dollar spent with us during the week mentioned the hospital fund gets 5c. This is not offered as a plea for you to buy our drygoods---we sell them solely on their merits, and unless the goods are cheaper or as cheap as you can buy elsewhere, our candid advice to you is don't buy them---but everything else being equal, help the hospital fund along. If you prefer subscribing directly in money you can be accommodated. A collection box in our cloak room will accord you that privilege any day during this sale. Now in conclusion, don't forget to come and get your souvenir Friday. If you don't come, we will feel slighted.

THE Boston Store News.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN WEEKS we are without a mechanic in the store. The carpenters, the tanners, the painters, the plumbers, the electricians and the paper hangers have finished their work and gone, leaving our storeroom improved an hundred fold. This is very good as far as it goes, but after all is not the most important item in successful retail merchandising. The paramount essential to a successful and ever expanding dry goods business is large and choice assortment of goods at the right prices. While the embellishment of the store was going on, those in charge of the different departments were not idle, but gathering together the very best merchandise in the market at the lowest possible prices, until today we can show you a stock of dry goods that we conscientiously believe is a credit to East Liverpool as well as to The Boston Store. Lest you might think this a prejudiced opinion, we will give you an opportunity of judging for yourself of its correctness, and right here and now extend to you a hearty invitation to come and see, not only the store improvements, but examine and price (whether you buy or not) our stock of spring drygoods.

VANITY HER DOWNFALL

Mr. Pomerene Severely Scored Mrs. George.

Wetly Finished His Speech—The Prisoner Was Occasionally Moved to Tears. Wetly Declared He Was Not Asking For Mercy For His Client.

CANTON, April 27.—The closing argument in the trial of Mrs. George was in progress when court adjourned. Prosecuting Attorney Pomerene began his argument and may conclude today. It was thought the jury would be charged immediately after the noon recess today. Mrs. George sat with downcast eyes and was occasionally moved to tears as the story of her life was narrated. The courtroom was thronged and many who could not gain admittance stood in the corridors.

In resuming his argument Mr. Wetly entered upon a vigorous attack upon the testimony of the state, insisting that it was purely a circumstantial case and that many essential features in the chain of circumstances were missing. Probably his most significant statement was that they did not want a recommendation of mercy from the jury in case of a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. He said they did not want mercy from the jury.

Mr. Wetly paid much attention to the question of threats, and one by one he took up each that had been introduced in testimony and described the circumstances under which they had been made. He insisted that all of the evidence regarding threats showed that by the very circumstances under which they were made there was no intention of putting them into execution. Mrs. George was weeping and lamenting when she made them. She loved Saxton. He had won her love and her affection for all time. She was devoted to him and lamented his neglect of her. She had no desire to kill him—it was contrary to all her interests to do so—she wanted to live with him and for him. Even had her motives been mercenary it would not have been wisdom to have killed him, for with him would die claims against him, while so long as he lived she had redress in the courts as a means of securing money relief.

Mr. Wetly insisted that the alibi offered was full and complete, and that it was not at serious variance with the time of various incidents fixed by reputable witnesses for the state. The attorney laid considerable stress on the testimony regarding the darkness of the night and the recognition of people at any distance. He attacked the testimony of the eyewitness, Mrs. Eckroate, on this ground, and also because of her alleged excessive use of opium. Mr. Wetly was scathing in his denunciation of the former police officer who found the revolver offered in evidence, and accused him of scheming for political advantages as well as a reward for the finding of the weapon.

Prosecuting Attorney Pomerene spoke briefly on the legal points involved in the case. He insisted that the extent to which the testimony of one addicted to the opium habit should be excluded was for the jury to decide according to the testimony on the use of the drug, resisting the proposition of the defense that the court should order the jury to ignore the testimony of one so addicted. He insisted that threats should be considered in the line of a motive for the crime, and as proving premeditation and deliberation. In summing up the prosecuting attorney insisted that the jury should not consider the character of Saxton; that if the accused was believed to be guilty, the jury should so find.

He dwelt at some length upon the subsequent result of an acquittal in the face of testimony proving guilt. He insisted that an alibi, attempted and not established, is an evidence of fraud and deception and declared the alibi in this case was not proved. He argued that the accused was not the simple country woman her attorney and represented her, but that she had been carried away by her vanity, her ambition and her desires for which only a rich man could provide her.

He insisted with much vehemence that when she secured a divorce from her husband, she must either have sworn truly to the good grounds for that divorce from her husband or else have falsified to the court, either of which he said was pertinent to this case. He insisted that her language and conduct had not been that of a woman, such as her attorney had represented her to be, and recalled the testimony of witnesses who had sworn that Mrs. George's words were too profane and too obscene to be repeated on the witness stand.

Oil In Guernsey County.

CAMBRIDGE, O., April 27.—Oil has been found here and the excitement is intense. The city is full of oil men from Sistersville, Parkersburg, Pittsburg, Buffalo and Cleveland watching developments. Saturday the well on the Black farm, on the edge of the city, was drilled in and plugged. R. E. Cornelius, who has about two acres of land near the well, was offered $2,000 and an eighth interest from Pittsburg parties.

The well has not yet been shot and will not be until the land has been leased or bought. A stockholder in the company said the well would probably produce from 30 to 50 barrels per day. There is great activity in leases.

Killed by News of Death.

COLUMBUS, April 27.—Sister Hyacinth of St. Mary's of the Springs, died as the result of a shock on hearing of the death of Bishop Watterson. She answered a telephone ring, received the message of the bishop's death, and suffered a paralytic stroke, which proved fatal. Her former name was Mary Nugent, and she belonged to a wealthy New York family.

KAUTZ LETTER ANNOYING.

Feared It Might Have Harmful Effect on Relations With Germany—Portion of What He Wrote.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The publication of Admiral Kautz' letter referring to his position at Samoa caused absolute consternation at the navy and state departments at first reading, but there was soon exhibited a disposition to minimize the affair because it was clearly apparent that the letter was nothing more than a strictly private communication passing between members of the same family. Nevertheless, coming as it did close upon Captain Coghlan's indiscretion, and following the publication of Judge Chambers' letter to his brother criticising the Germans in Samoa, the opinion was held that Admiral Kautz' letter could not have other than a harmful effect upon the relations between the United States and Germany.

The letter was brought to the attention of the president and some sort of a reminder may be sent to the officer to be more careful in his correspondence.

In official German quarters the letter was not treated very seriously and there was no indication that the German authorities would take cognizance of it.

The impression prevailed that the navy department probably would deal with the indiscretion in such a way as it deserved.

CINCINNATI, April 27.—A letter written by Rear Admiral Kautz to his cousin, Mrs. Charles N. Lindley of Cincinnati, was made public by the recipient. It was dated March 22. In the letter he said in part: "You will probably read a lot of stuff about me in various newspapers, but I can assure you that I am all right and have done nothing that I or my friends may be ashamed of, unless it is the making of a king, which I was obliged to do today. But he is a very inoffensive sort of young fellow, a native 19 years of age. He wears a French admiral's cocked hat, but no shoes or stockings or trousers. Still, considering the torrid weather, he looks very well in this climate. But I hardly think he would look as well on Fourth at Cincinnati. I am not a king here, but just plain 'boss of the ranch.' The German consul had that position up to my arrival, but since then he has been a very silent partner. I am very much afraid he does not like me—in fact, I am not at all popular here with the Germans. But I am all right with the English and hope to pull through with them. I have no doubt of being sustained by the government in all I have done."

Further along in a postscript he said: "P. S.—I was in error about the shoes and trousers of his royal highness. At the last moment his advisers prevailed upon him to put on both just for this occasion only."

CAPT. COGHLAN REPRIMANDED.

A Letter Sent to Him and the Case Considered Closed.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The case of Captain Coghlan may be considered as finally closed. The German ambassador, Dr. Von Holleben, called at the White House and had a conference on the subject with the president of such a satisfactory nature that the matter was regarded as settled. The president explained the course the navy department had taken in administering a reprimand to Captain Coghlan. It was also pointed out that the officer's explanation of the incident stated that his utterances had been much exaggerated. On the part of the ambassador, there was every disposition to deal as lightly with the matter as possible, and not to permit it to become a source of friction.

During the day the navy department administered to Captain Coghlan the reprimand which had been determined upon Tuesday, as stated in these dispatches. This was in the form of a letter from Secretary Long to the officer. It is stated at the department that the letter will not be made public before the officer has received it, and probably not then.

Declared Commanders Were Courteous.

BERLIN, April 27.—With the view of rectifying the reports of discord said to exist between the three naval commanders at Samoa the Norddeutsche Zeitung publishes extracts from the reports of the commander of German warship Falke up to March 23, in which Captain Schoenfelder denied there was trouble between the commanders and said they were courteous to each other.

$100,000 Gift to Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 27.—A friend of Princeton university, whose name was not disclosed, has endowed a new chair to the value of $100,000. The called the professorship in politics. The first incumbent will be chosen at the June meeting of the board of trustees.

ADVANCE OF LAWTON.

Captured Two Towns and Drove the Rebels.

PART OF CALUMPIT WAS TAKEN.

He Had Fierce Fighting Before the City. Three Killed and Eleven Wounded. Rebels Used Artillery—A Transport Reached Manila With More Troops.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The following cablegram was received at the war department:

"MANILA, April 26.

Adjutant General Washington:

"Lawton at Norzagaray and Angat, his two columns united have driven the enemy to north and west. Slight casualties, names not reported. Only means communication couriers.

"MacArthur has taken portion of Calumpit, south of river. Movement attended with difficulties on account of jungle, heat and strong entrenchments. His casualties yesterday three killed and 11 wounded. Developments thus far satisfactory.

MANILA, April 27.—Aguinaldo's army Wednesday was defending Calumpit energetically, which was said to indicate that the rebels were finally making that place their last ditch or stand, which the Americans expected them to make at Malolos. For the first time the Filipinos were employing artillery.

They brought two guns into action in the trenches Wednesday before Calumpit.

pit, firing modern shrapnel, which burst over the heads of General Wheaton's men without effect.

The fighting was resumed about 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

During the night the American engineers repaired the Bagbag bridge, thus enabling our troops to cross the river.

General Wheaton's brigade advanced in extended order with the Kansas regiment to the west of the railroad and the Montana regiment to the east of it and took up a position covering one and a half miles on the south bank of the Rio Grande. On the opposite bank were fortified trenches, from which a few American soldiers would have been able to defy thousands, so strongly were they constructed.

The Americans found the trenches on the south bank of the river deserted, which furnished them with cover from which they could pick off Filipinos whenever one of them showed his head.

When the rebels began firing, two puffs of smoke, simultaneously from each side of the railroad track, showed they were using cannon, which was a genuine surprise to the Americans. Several shells burst close to General Wheaton's staff, but it seemed that the Filipinos failed to master the machinery of modern shells, as they were unable to get the right range.

Young's Utah battery was ordered into position in the center of the Kansas regiment, to silence the rebel guns, and about 11 o'clock the rapid fire guns had been ferried across the river and came into line.

About noon the rebels were still pouring a heavy fire in the direction of the Americans, who returned it spiritedly.

Two Americans were killed and seven were wounded.

At about this time General Hale's brigade was advancing east of the line, apparently to cross the river and attack the rebel trenches in the flank, as the Americans did Tuesday.

General MacArthur secured the order issued by Aguinaldo to the rebel commanders telling them to instruct their men to economize their fire, save the empty shells and not to fire at the enemy when the latter was under cover. The Filipinos were also instructed never to fire at a longer range than 100 meters, and when they had a river or other obstructions in front to hold their fire until within 80 meters.

This order was issued after the recent encounters between the Filipinos and the Americans.

General Lawton was meeting with the greatest obstacles in the character of the country. His troops had had a few skirmishes, resulting in five of his men being wounded. He had been forced to put his men at work building roads, and the transport service was giving much trouble, bullocks dying of the heat and exhaustion and Chinamen having to be employed in pulling some of the carts. Therefore the general had been unable to cover the ground he hoped to cover.

The natives flee before the expedition, but they swarm back to their huts as soon as the American troops have passed.

The Filipino sharpshooters were harassing the American flanks.

The commissary department was preparing to send more rations, under a strong escort, to the front.

The United States transport Zealandia, from San Francisco, March 28, having on board several companies of the Ninth infantry and a large quantity of supplies, arrived here after an uneventful voyage. Her troops were camped on the water front.

The United States transport Sheridan was expected to sail for home today. She will take among her passengers General Charles King and Mrs. Colonel Stotsenberg, conveying her husband's body to the United States. The Sheridan also had on board several officers' families, who found Manila an undesirable residence place.

KRUGER PREPARES FOR WAR

Apparently Expecting Trouble With the British, Who Are Augmenting Their Forces.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Journal printed a dispatch dated Cape Town, April 26, saying in part:

President Kruger's general in chief, Joubert, is inspecting the frontiers and selecting places suitable for entrenchments.

Kruger, as he intimated a month ago, evidently is expecting hostilities with England.

The Dutchmen are uneasy over the result of the petition to Joseph Chamberlain, England's colonial minister, signed by 21,000 English residents in the Transvaal and setting forth their grievances. Chamberlain's action, it is believed, will mark a crisis in English-Dutch relations.

The British army here is being steadily augmented.

DECLARED HOSE NOT GUILTY.

A Colored Bishop on the Recent Lynchings in Georgia.

NEW YORK, April 27.—At the annual conference of the African M. E. church in Jersey City Bishop Walters spoke on the recent burning at the stake of Sam Hose, colored, at Palmetto, Ga. The bishop asserted that the charge of assault, which was put forward in justification of the treatment of Hose, was unfounded and would soon be shown to be false. He warned the whites of the north that if the negroes of the south were not given fair treatment a race war would be precipitated.

Bishop Walters announced that the first Sunday in June would be observed as a day of fasting and prayer to Almighty God for aid in this hour of distress.

WOMEN DISCUSS MISSION WORK.

Fourteen Missionaries Speak For the Cause, at Presbyterian Convention.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—The first day's sessions of the 29th annual assembly of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, meeting in the East Liberty Presbyterian church, were attended by immense audiences.

Perhaps the climax of the day's interest was reached when, during the forenoon session, 14 missionaries from foreign lands were introduced and received an ovation from the 1,000 ladies assembled. At other points the interest was scarcely less intense.

THE MANITOBA BEEF CARGO.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The board convened by a special order to examine into and report upon the responsibility for the loss of 300,000 pounds of refrigerated beef sent to Porto Rico last summer submitted its report and findings. The beef was shipped on the transport Manitoba from Swift & Co. in Chicago and Kansas City.

The board decided that Swift & Co. should be paid for the beef and Secretary Alger so decided.

MONUMENT TO GRANT.

Unveiling Occurred In Philadelphia Today.

MISS SARTORIS PULLED THE CORD.

The President and Other Distinguished People Present, Among Them the General's Widow and General Fred Grant. Cruiser Raleigh Fired Salute.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The new monument to the late General Ulysses S. Grant, in Fairmount park, was unveiled this afternoon.

The presidential party arrived over the Pennsylvania railroad about noon. In this distinguished party were the President and Mrs. McKinley, Secretary and Mrs. Gage, Secretary and Mrs. Long, Attorney General Griggs, Secretary Hitchcock, Captain Algernon Sartoris, grandson of General Grant; Assistant Secretary Cortelyou, and other personages of national prominence. Upon their arrival the president and his party were welcomed by a committee of distinguished citizens and, with a detail from the First City troop, as a guard of honor, were escorted to the Hotel Bellevue, where luncheon was served, after which the president took the place of honor in the line of parade to the scene of the unveiling.

When the president reached the monument, and as he alighted from his carriage, the First battalion of the Pennsylvania naval militia, under the command of Captain John S. Muckle, fired the national salute of 21 guns. Battery D of the national guard, commanded by Captain Carpenter, followed with a salute of 17 guns during the unveiling, and simultaneously the Raleigh returned the salute from the Delaware, where she was anchored.

Miss Sartoris, the general's granddaughter, pulled the cord which unveiled the monument. At her side were Mrs. Mary Grant Cramer, sister of General Grant; Lieutenant Alexander Sharp, nephew of Mrs. Grant, and Captain Algernon Sartoris, her brother, who was her personal escort during the ceremonies.

Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant and General Fred Grant were also present.

About 5,000 men of the national guard were in line in the parade, consisting of the First, Second, Third, Sixth, Nineteenth and Twentieth regiments, Batteries C and D, Troops City Cavalry A and B, the crew of the Raleigh and the crews of two other United States warships, marines from League Island, Girard College cadets, Cooper battalion and the cadets from the Pennsylvania Military academy at Chester.

An interesting feature of the exercises was the participation of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, many of whom were with Grant in his most important campaigns. A tribute from China came in the shape of a wreath from the Chinese minister at Washington, which was deposited on the statue after the unveiling. The Chinese naval reserves escorted the wreath to the statue and personally placed it in position.

President McKinley will attend a banquet at the Union League and later in the evening will be present at the meeting at the Academy of Music. Tomorrow the presidential party will pay a visit to the Raleigh, and in the afternoon will return to Washington.

The cruiser Raleigh reached her anchorage off Race street wharf Wednesday. Mayor Ashbridge, the council committee on the unveiling and a number of distinguished citizens met the cruiser below the city and escorted her to the anchorage. A large fleet of steamers followed in the wake, blowing their whistles constantly, to which noise was added the welcome from factory bells and whistles on both sides of the Delaware river. When the procession reached League Island navyyard, the Raleigh fired a salute of 15 guns to Admiral Casey, commandant of the yard, to which the navyyard responded. A brief stop was made, during which the Raleigh's commander went ashore and paid his respects to Admiral Casey and Captain Clarke, captain of the yard.

CAPTAIN HUNT DEAD.

Commander of Battery B of Pittsburg Died of Sickness Contracted During the War.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—Captain Alfred E. Hunt, former commander of Battery B, national guard of Pennsylvania, died at the Hotel Lafayette, Philadelphia, yesterday, aged 44 years. When engaged at Chickamauga park with his battery, during the war with Spain, he became very ill and came to his home in Pittsburg. When his battery was ordered to Porto Rico, although far from well, Captain Hunt went with it, and remained with his command until it was mustered out of service.

Suffering from a complication of diseases, he returned to Pittsburg, but, when advised by his physicians, started for Atlantic City. Soon after reaching Philadelphia he was seized with exhaustion, and, although he was up at times, his condition for the past few days grew worse, until his death yesterday afternoon.

At the meeting of the Junior Mechanics to be held this evening one candidate living in East End will be initiated. After the regular business has been

Mike O'Keefe, of Buffalo, is in the city. He claims that he is here for the purpose of arranging a prize fight to take place in the vicinity of the city between two men of national reputation. He claims he wants to engage two local men for a preliminary bout, and called on a few members of the sporting fraternity, but did not receive much encouragement from them.

One night some rebel bullets struck the house of a half caste who claimed American citizenship, and without the loss of a minute Leary took the matter up. Stevenson, more in the spirit of the romancer than the historian, says that the American's pigs were endangered by the shots and that Captain Leary ran up the American flag over the house and let fall many thrilling hints of a bombardment which he was about to indulge in. Small as this incident was, Leary went to the bottom of it, and he

The Odd Fellows Observed Their Anniversary.

GRAND MASTER MILLER'S SPEECH

The Meeting Was Not Held at the Young Men's Christian Association Last Night, and the Original Program Was Not Carried Out Because of a Death.

The eightieth anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of America was observed by the lodge of this city in a fitting manner last night. The original program consisting of a banquet and parade, was changed on account of the death of a member, and instead of using the Young Men's Christian association auditorium for the occasion the lodge room was used. At 8:30 o'clock the meeting was called to order, and Chairman Croxall in a short speech stated the object of the meeting and gave a brief history of the local lodge. Of the later he said: "This lodge was organized July 27, 1833. There were 15 charter members, of whom three are now living, and only one of this number is still a member. The others are either dead or moved to other parts. The lodge has now over 200 members and has property valued at over $20,000.

The speaker of the evening, Ralph P. Miller, of Columbus, grand master of the supreme lodge of Ohio, was introduced, and after speaking of the merits of the order said:

"John Welsh, member of the lodge of England, inserted an advertisement in the Baltimore American, asking that all members of the lodge assemble at the Seven Stars, in Second street, on March 27, 1819. This call was responded to by about 15 men. A committee was appointed to adopt plans for reorganization, and a few weeks afterwards Washington lodge, No. 1, was organized. From that time until today lodges have been organizing all over the country, with a total membership of over 3,000,000, of which about 85,000 are in Ohio. The organization, like a political party, has adopted a platform—friendship, love and truth. The planks are long and broad enough to support the entire population. Caste should not be tolerated by members of Odd Fellowship. The same obligations that were advanced to candidates in 1819 are advanced to candidates today. They have never been changed, and never will. Truth is the corner stone of our lodge, while love is the keystone. Friendship is the strongly welded link that has no hands, and forms an important part in Odd Fellowship. We should relieve our distressed, not by proxy; visit our sick, not by proxy; bury our dead, not by proxy; educate our orphans, but not by proxy. There should not be any proxies in true Odd Fellowship, and the truest example of the latter is found in the rural lodges. From the bottom of my heart I say, use no substitutes or proxies in discharging the obligations of Odd Fellowship. It was love of humanity that only a few months ago gave to history a Dewey, a Hobson and seven men that the tyranny of a mother country should be banished from the earth, and in its place has been planted the Star Spangled Banner.

"The capitalist and laborer stand on a platform of equality. Love and truth form a combination of virtues that are undestructable."

After the meeting had been adjourned those present held an informal social lasting about half an hour.

TAKEN HOME.

James Elliott Is Rapidly Regaining His Health.

James Elliott, who was injured several weeks ago when a wagon overturned in Pennsylvania avenue in East End, was today taken to his home in Bellevue, Pa., by Mrs. Elliott, who came here when her husband was hurt. He is still far from well, but can walk by the aid of a cane.

Mr. Elliott is a brother of Mrs. A. J. Boyce, and he has been at her residence in Forest street since the accident occurred.

Grand Friday Night.

An evening of mirth is assured those who visit the Grand Friday night to witness the famous European Sensation Burlesquers. The opening burletta, "A Hot Old Time," is strictly up to date with new songs, dances, jokes, scenery and costumes. The vaudeville features are novel and original and the ensemble highly artistic.

OUR CUT PRICES

Should Be Considered by Economical Business Men.

You can save several dollars a year by placing your printing in the hands of the NEWS REVIEW, and at the same time have a high grade of work, that you will be proud of. We have always been the leading printers of the city, and will maintain our reputation. Our excellent line of papers, fine grade inks and up-to-date type, ornaments, etc., make our product desirable. We have always contended that printing done at the NEWS REVIEW should command a little more than that of the smaller offices, because of its superiority, but in order to keep all our machinery in operation at all times, and avoid lulls in business, which happen occasionally, we have revised our price list, and made such a slash in figures that we have no fear of competition. Remember, no shoddy material is to be found in our large stock room—everything is first-class. Fine color printing, for which we have gained a reputation, is one of our chief specialties. We can give you an elegant two-color job for the price usually paid for one color. If an economical business man, you will call up telephone 122 before placing an order. This is not a spurt, but a standing offer.

CUBAN BANDIT CAPTURED.

Major Duncan B. Harrison's Hand to Hand Encounter With Him.

An interesting story reached the war department from Santiago recently about a hand to hand encounter between Major Duncan B. Harrison of the Ninth immunes and Prudencio Breal, a notorious guerrilla chief, commonly known as Trocon, or Big Stump. Breal's gang of bandits had killed Andrew Gattshalk, a teamster, and Major Harrison, with seven men, was sent to capture the gang. The Americans, mounted on mules, overtook the gang near Santa Ana after two days' trailing. In the fight which occurred two bandits were killed and three wounded. The rest fled, but Harrison and his men caught Breal and some others. Breal showed fight. He is a negro 6 feet 7 inches tall. He clinched with Harrison, who is something of a giant himself. Harrison bore the bandit to the ground and bound him, with the assistance of others. It was found that Harrison had been shot in the leg, and he suffered severely during the ride on a mule's back to Santiago, 70 miles distant. On the return trip two of the captured bandits were identified as the men who had killed Gattshalk. They attempted to escape and were killed. Breal is known in Santiago province as the Executioner. He boasts of having killed 103 Spaniards and several Americans.

Instructions have been issued by the war department officials for a practical test in the field of a wrist belt designed to hold 20 cartridges. The material of the belt is the same as that used in standard waist belts. The idea of the wrist belt originated from the practice of American soldiers of carrying four or five cartridges in the left hand or held between the teeth. As the left hand is habitually close to the breech block during firings, cartridges held in a wrist belt can be more readily fed, it is claimed, to the gun than from a waist belt.

It is proposed by the war department authorities to issue three wrist belts per soldier. The waist belt will be supplied as heretofore. The wrist belts will ordinarily be carried by the men in their haversacks and pockets. One of them will be slipped over the left hand at the order to commence firing.

Our Locomotives For the World.

A dispatch from Philadelphia to New York says that an order for 45 locomotives from the government of India has been received there, the order covering various sizes, including many especially adapted to mining districts. The Baldwin Locomotive works have just finished the first locomotive of the 30 recently ordered by the Midland railway of England. The locomotives will be shipped from New York instead of Philadelphia because of lower rates and berth facilities in New York. The locomotives differ from those in general use in England in the cowcatchers, couplers and airbrakes and in much greater capacity for coal and water.

The children all died young and it is asserted they were poisoned with cyanide of potassium.

COUNCILMEN.

There are councilmen and councilmen.
When narrow minded members of such
a body make use of their public position
for the gratification of petty spite and
malice, then are they unworthy of the trust reposed in them--unfit to be called councilmen, and lacking in every essential which goes to make up the manly
man.

REPUBLICANS?

Did it ever occur to you that the only
men worthy to be called REPUBLICANS
are those who are founded in the faith
on the solid rock of PRINCIPLE? The fellows who are in the ranks of the Grand Old Party (old, yet ever new in
the advocacy of liberty and pure government) simply from the standpoint of
SPOILS and GREED OF OFFICE, are not Republicans, but mere time servers, and
are the most deadly enemies true Republicanism can have.

East Liverpool pays its solicitor a salary to live after its legal affairs and as advisor to council. It does not elect
an attorney to the place in order that council may ask his advice and then refuse to recognize it, nor does the city
expect that councilmen shall constantly follow that course. If members of the legislative branch believe they are possessed of sufficient legal knowledge to make their way clear without the aid of
a solicitor, why not permit council to select one of their number and strike
the office from the list? It would save
the city some $600 a year and convince
the member who fills the place that he has undertaken a contract that he cannot carry out.

Solicitor McGarry is an honest official,
and since his election he has given the
public no reason to believe that he is not doing his duty faithfully. There have been times when he frankly showed
council that if his advice had been followed the city would not have been put
to needless expense, yet there are members who persist in crying down the advice he offers at almost every meeting.
Council should take advantage of the
solicitor's advice, or why should the city
be compelled to support a luxury in the form of a solicitor?

Attorneys Will Hold a Session
This Evening.

HAVE CONSULTED COMMISSIONERS

Regarding What Is to Them a Very Important Matter--Arrangements Will Be Made to Push the Project Along as Rapidly as Possible.

The attorneys of the city will meet
this evening to take further action upon
the question of establishing a police
court in the city.

The attorneys have been active since
their last meeting and have given the subject a thorough investigation. At
the meeting to be held tonight arrangements will be made to have the committee present the plan to council at
their next regular meeting.

After inquiry it cannot be learned whether the attorneys have consulted
the county commissioners in regard to what they are willing to pay toward supporting the court here, but it is understood the commissioners were approached on the subject when they were in the city a few days ago.

The attorneys are expecting much opposition to the plan, and already there
is much feeling at the county seat
against it, and the matter will be fought bitterly, both directly and indirectly, by county seat residents. The reason given is that the police court will deprive the county seat of much revenue,
because of the non-attendance of witnesses and parties at trials. The people of Lisbon who have expressed themselves on the subject, say that it is only a step toward moving the courthouse to this city.

THE PHENOMENON

Cured People of All Kinds of Ills Last
Night.

The Boy Phenomenon, who had been

dividuals, faced a large audience and
carried out his part of the program.

sight were sensibly improved, the young
man doing nothing more than pass his

hands over the heads of his patients and rubbing the afflicted parts. Another public demonstration will be given tonight.

straining the concern from selling stock.
The officers did not appear, however,
and no meeting was held.

President Jutte, Secretary Frick and
the stockholders met today, but nothing
was done.

Fabio Romani.

Aiden Benedict's "Fabio Romani,"
which will be presented at the Grand
April 29, is a dramatization of Marie
Correlli's famous novel entitled "The Vendetta." It is a very interesting story, and the interest is much strengthened by the dramatic production. It is a melo-drama with sense and consistency, as well as undeniable power and unflinching interest. It is filled with interesting dramatic scenes, which grapple fast to the heart strings, and the comedy, which comes in naturally, is not only genuine but appropriate. The

Have Assembled.

IN CAMP AT WOODLAWN PARK

The King Will Be There With All His Friends and It Will Be a Time of Rejoicing--The Party of Gypsies Now In This City Will Soon Start For Chicago.

Levi Stanley and family, the Gypsies
who are camping in the East End, are
on their way to Chicago where they,
with others, are expected to attend a reunion of all the Stanley families known
to exist. In speaking of this all important event yesterday evening Mr.
Stanley said:

"It has been many years since we have all been together. There are about 70 families, and I personally have no
less than three brothers and several cousins now on their way to Chicago. During this week Gustave Stanley, whom we call our king, will pitch
a camp near Woodlawn park. Upon his arrival a fire will be built and it will
be kept constantly burning until all the tribes have assembled around it. This is a custom that has always been observed. By the third week in June the various families will have been assembled and the fire will be extinguished. After that Mollie Stanley, who was last year crowned queen of our set
in the west, will be formerly recognized
by our people. People from the old country are expected to be there, and
the event promises to an exceedingly interesting one."

When Mr. Stanley spoke of meeting
with his people tears came to his eyes,
and when asked the cause he smiled
meekly and said, "Oh, nothing."

A STATEMENT

Regarding Representations Made to Council Tuesday Night.

In order that the public may know
the facts I desire to say that the First National bank knows nothing of the parties who secured a telephone franchise from the city council last Tuesday night, and this institution did not recommend or stand back of Mr. Thayer,
in whose name, we understand, the franchise was given. The communication presented was never seen by an officer
of this bank, and its contents were not known. The First National bank has nothing whatever to do with any project
looking to the construction of another telephone system in this place, and because of the representation made to council believes the action of that body
should be reconsidered. If this is not done, we ask all our friends who think of binding themselves by contract to take
the service to first investigate, and not support it under the assumption that the First National is behind the project.

FOR JONES

Columbiana County Delegates Will

"Columbiana's delegation at the state convention will cast its first ballot for General Jones, of Youngstown," said a prominent politician of the county to the

"General Jones is a resident of this district. We all know him, and think we should support him. I do not say that he will get our vote until the winner is named, but he will get it on the
first call."

Mayor Bough Thinks His Office Should be Renovated.

Mayor Bough is of the opinion that
his office and courtroom should be pa-

long.

The paper on the walls of the private

many places the plaster being visible.
The court room on the same floor could
be improved in various ways.

A number of wheelmen figured in a mix up at Fourth and Broadway but
no one was hurt.

As usual there were two parties, one

When they came together the crowd
seemed just a bunch of bicycles and boys. No one was seriously hurt although each received bruises.

On the River.

The river still maintains a good stage,

Has Gone to Join His Already Long List.

The Matter Should Have Been Closed Last Tuesday, but Homer Sutton Did Not Appear and Landlord Polk Thinks It Is Off. Allen Was the Promoter.

C. E. Allen, president of the defunct Ohio Clay Manufacturing company, president of the bank that never happened, and connected with the lumber business on paper, also expected to become interested in the sale of the Thompson House. The papers were signed several weeks ago, and the first payment was to have been made yesterday, but the property is still in possession of Landlord Polk.

Allen had been talking the matter of sale with Mr. Polk, and taking it as would the promoter of any plan said he would find a purchaser for the property. Soon afterward Homer Sutton, of Grove City, Pa., father of the young man who took stock in the Ohio Clay Manufacturing company and was made secretary by Allen, came to town. He wanted to buy the Thompson House, and the matter was arranged. The papers were duly signed, and Mr. Sutton was to pay $2,500 on the bargain last Tuesday. The same amount was to be paid in a week, and next November he was to pay $5,000. Arrangements were also made for the payment of the remainder of the purchase price.

When Allen disappeared owing Mr. Polk $50 he was not sure that the hotel would change hands, but he waited for developments until Tuesday. Then when Mr. Sutton did not come to make the first payment he knew the deal was off. It is believed that Allen was to be a partner with Sutton in the hotel, and no one thinks the former had anything to do with the affairs of Allen or knew anything of him except as he appeared to Liverpool people.

A Pittsburg paper of this morning is responsible for the statement that H. F. Boyd was yesterday registered at the Griswold House in Detroit. As Allen last week talked by telephone to Mrs. H. F. Boyd at Niagara Falls, he being in a business house in this place, it is probable the revelation is more than a coincidence.

Yesterday a bill for $1 reached the city from Brick, a trade paper in Chicago. It was directed to Allen, and asked him to pay the subscription price of the paper. Among Allen's effects had been found before this time a card bearing the name of L. P. Allen as being connected with Brick. A telegram was sent to the paper asking if L. P. Allen was in its employ, and the answer came back that he was its traveling subscription agent. That ended the supposition that C. E. Allen had been acting in that capacity.

UNLOADED

Is the Machinery For Use on the Cumberland Branch.

The work of unloading the machinery, brought to the Virginia side Tuesday and to be used in the construction of the Cumberland branch, has been finished.

This morning some carts and scrapers were unloaded on the shore opposite the wharf boat. A large force of men are now engaged in unloading the coal from the flats to the shore. Engineer McConnell, who will have charge of the work for the railroad company, stated this morning he did not think excavating would be commenced before Monday.

ALLEN MUST PAY

If the Florist Ever Expects to Get His Money.

The case of Thomas B. Freeman against the Ohio Clay Manufacturing company for $150, on a draft given him by C. E. Allen, was heard this morning in the court of Squire Rose. The testimony was taken and after hearing the arguments it was dismissed by Squire Rose. If Freeman recovers his money he will have to get it from Allen.

Alex Johnson, who is a member of the new company that is in the process of formation, stated this morning that he had nothing to say of his visit to Sallenville yesterday.

A Quiet but Notable Wedding Yesterday.

The following from the Wheeling News of last evening will be read with pleasure by the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin:

"A quiet but notable wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride in Brookside, Bridgeport's pretty suburb, at high noon today, the principals being Miss Martha Medill, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Medill, and Mr. John Smith Goodwin, a prominent young pottery manufacturer of East Liverpool. The parlors were handsomely decorated for the occasion. The ceremony, which was witnessed only by the relatives of the principals and a few intimate friends, was performed by the Rev. J. A. Donahey, pastor of the Bridgeport Presbyterian church. The bride looked very attractive in a gown of gray broadcloth trimmed with violet velvet. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was discussed and an informal reception held. This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin leave on an eastern wedding trip and after May 15 will be at home at East Liverpool. The bride is one of the most popular of Bridgeport's young ladies and has many friends in this city. She was a former pupil at Mt. de Chantal and graduated there two years ago with honors. Mr. Goodwin is a son of one of the pottery pioneers of East Liverpool and prominent in pottery manufacturing circles in that town. He also has numerous friends here. Both he and his bride will enter into their married life with a host of best wishes for all happiness."

SMALL STRIKE.

This morning at the Vodrey pottery the warehousewomen went out on a strike, asking $1 a day instead of 75 cents, which they now receive. The strike includes seven women, and the firm do not anticipate any trouble in filling their places.

The warehousewomen of the city will probably meet tomorrow evening and organize a union. It is intimated that the strike will spread to other factories, where a like demand for an increase is to be made.

MODERN MIRACLES.

Cures Performed Last Night That Rival Those of 1800 Years Ago.

Grand Opera House the Scene of the Most Astonishing and Unparalleled Accomplishments.

The Boy Phenomenon, the Hero of the Day, Greeted With Prolonged Applause From a Gratiified and Surprised Audience.

Another Demonstration Tonight Free--For Adults Only.

"Wonderful!" "Astonishing!" "Marvelous!" "The Work of God!" "Miraculous!" "How can he do it?" and many like expressions were heard as the vast throng surged out of the Grand Opera House last night, after witnessing the most interesting exhibition of healing the sick ever performed in this part of the country.

There has never been a medical practitioner, or any other man in this town, who has attracted so much attention or has been the object of such universal praise as has been accorded this youthful healer since his advent here. He is the talk of the town. One hears and sees nothing but "Boy Phenomenon." He is the chief topic of conversation on the streets, in the stores, on the cars, in offices, at home—in fact, everywhere. His name, coupled with the marvelous cures he accomplished last night upon the stage, before hundreds of representative citizens of East Liverpool, has created an exciting episode in our city.

There were many of our most prominent and influential citizens in the audience, including leading physicians, lawyers, judges, and business men. As usual, many were, no doubt, very skeptical when they went in, but all were of one mind when they went out, and that was that magnetism, as possessed by the "Boy Phenomenon," does undoubtedly possess most wonderful healing qualities.

Tonight will occur the second and last public exhibition. Those who are interested in the work and all who are on crutches, the lame, deaf and sick, who wish to be cured, will be given front seats and treated free upon the stage. Admission free to all adults.

About a dozen well known citizens were treated last night, suffering with as many different diseases, and by his wonderful life-giving magnetism restored paralyzed and rheumatic limbs to usefulness, made the deaf hear, the blind see and the lame walk, in each instance the patients demonstrating by their actions and testifying by words the great benefits derived. While there were many remarkable cures performed, time prevents a more extended notice in this article, as the detailed report of the demonstration will be found in the local column. Suffice to say, he did all and more than his advertisement claimed for him. He certainly proved to the most exacting that he has some power by which he is enabled to effect wonderful transformations.

Those who desire private treatment and are able to pay a small price to be treated, may call at the Thompson House any time during the next two weeks and receive complete examination and a thorough diagnosis, at which time the examining physician will decide if the case is curable, and, if so, the price of treatment will be named. No free cases treated at the hotel. Those wishing free treatment must go to the Grand Opera House tonight. Office hours—10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except the Sabbath.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Congressman Alexander's Experience With an Alligator.

DESIGNS FOR LAFAYETTE COIN

Favored One Shows Profiles of Washington and the Marquis—Indians to Be Enlisted as Scouts For Our New Possessions—New Feature Added to Washington Society.

It is said in Washington that Representative Alexander of Buffalo did not embrace the opportunities to bathe in the limpid Floridian waters so freely offered during his recent voyage among the Florida keys on Dr. Pierce's boat, says the New York World. Those who know the congressman best are aware that he takes his morning plunge with as much pleasure as he draws his congressional salary. It is also known that during the closing days of congress he anticipated the pleasure of a long daily swim in the warm waters of some southern bay quite as much as any other feature offered by his coming vacation.

Friends of the congressman say that on the first morning out of Tampa, as the houseboat lay sheltered behind one of the coast islands, Mr. Alexander appeared on deck with his muscular form incased in a newly purchased costume, evidently with the intention of plunging into the briny. He was observed to poise himself carefully on the rail, but as he swayed lower and lower toward the limpid surface of the bay a shadow of uncertainty was seen to pass over his face; he clutched quickly at a stanchion, swung himself back to the deck and disappeared in his cabin. Soon sounds from within proclaimed that the colonel's ablutions were being performed among the much despised tubs.

Members of the party sauntered to the rail to learn the cause of the colonel's discomfiture. It was found in all its unpleasant suggestiveness. Just beneath the surface lazily floated an enormous gator with expectant eye turned upward to the spot so recently graced by the member from Buffalo. It is said Mr. Alexander stuck to his tub during the remainder of the trip.

Secretary Gage and George E. Roberts, director of the mint, now have under consideration the designs for the Lafayette memorial dollars, 50,000 of which are soon to be minted by the United States and handed over to the Lafayette monument commission, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. Charles E. Barber, designer of the mint at Philadelphia, has submitted four separate designs.

No. 1 shows on one side of the coin the heads of Lafayette and Washington in double profile with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," forming a circle around them. The opposite side of this coin bears a picture of the proposed Lafayette monument with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 2 has on one side the profile of George Washington, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," on the other side a profile of Lafayette, with the words, "Monument to Lafayette; Erected Paris, France, 1900."

No. 3 bears on one side a profile of Lafayette and the dates 1757-1834, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar," and on the reverse a figure of the proposed monument, with the inscription, "In Honor of General Lafayette; Erected by the Youth of the United States; Paris, France, 1900."

No. 4 has on one side the profiles of Lafayette, Washington, Lincoln and Grant, each in a circle occupying one-fourth of the surface of the coin, with the words, "United States of America, One Dollar." The reverse side has the same inscription as Nos. 1 and 3. It is probable that design No. 2 will be finally adopted by Secretary Gage, though there may be some modifications.

The war department has entered on a new departure in regard to enlistments in directing that able-bodied Indians be recruited for the regular army, says the New York Sun. Word to this effect has been sent to the Carlisle Indian school and to recruiting stations in the west. Some years ago the war department decided that the experiment of making soldiers out of Indians was a failure, and the few companies of redskins that had been formed were mustered out of the service.

The intention in regard to the new Indian recruits is to send them to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, where their superior knowledge of scouting and woodcraft would be of considerable benefit to the white soldiers. They will be regularly enlisted and required to engage in drills, marches and all the routine of a soldier's experience and will be distributed among various regiments.

Larz Anderson has added a new feature to Washington society by bringing a native from East India to lend color to his carriage on the avenues and give a dash of the picturesque to his wife's receptions, says the Chicago Times-Herald. He is likely to become as famous as the Russian droschky and its driver, owned by one of the wealthy Russian secretaries, or the brilliantly caparisoned attendant who accompanied a former German minister when he went calling and whose much plumed hat and other incidentals of livery drew the attention generally accorded a circus parade. These lowly servants are quite outdone, however, by Mr. Anderson's East India man. His costume is of a brilliant blue, topped by a much gilded fez, and his countenance betrays no more interest in things mundane, except the wants of his employers, than a statue, which he so closely represents.

Power.

It does not consist in any particular position. He who has it makes positions where none before existed. It does not largely lie in opportunity, but the man of power seizes and controls opportunities. It is not dependent on physical conditions in any great degree, but changes conditions to meet its need. It is not in voice or manner, not in expression or gesture, but back of all these and under all. Power lies in the inner soul. It is in consciousness, in the real self, and controls all faculties. Whoever has it seems to himself to be able to see more clearly, feel more intensely and act more determinedly. Strength comes to him, enthusiasm warms him, impulses drive him. Speak and act he must and will whatever may hinder. The strength seems to him to be that of some force not himself, and yet he holds it and uses it while it still holds and uses him.

Our New Possessions.

Deeper than the interest we have in the political future of Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines is the care we must have for their religious uplift. Already plans are maturing for our church to send its missionaries into the islands not before occupied by us. We have had a mission for some years in Honolulu, but none in the West Indies or the Philippines.

Magazines and illustrated papers have for months been filled with articles on these newly opened lands. It would be of much profit and awaken new life in the literary work of the League to spend an evening in a review of the religious condition and needs of these lands. Short papers or addresses by several members could without great labor be prepared and illustrated by maps and pictures cut from current periodicals. Even when one has read much there is a charm in having a condensation of facts gathered from many sources and placed in new language. The exercise will well repay those who do the work for all exertion they may expend.

Open Thon Mine Eyes.

Not what one reads with the eyes but what one sees with the soul is the valuable thing in Bible study. The illumination needed is not on the text, but on the human understanding. Often one has read a passage so frequently that it has become memorized and stereotyped and almost meaningless. Suddenly under some new stress of circumstances, danger, sorrow, helplessness or new found joy, the passage beams out as the flash of some great lighthouse far over the sea. The word grows luminous, the soul is flooded with pure radiance, and the eyes see as never before beauties and glories which no tongue can describe, but which one's own spirit eyes must behold if he is ever to comprehend. The finger of God has touched the eyes before blind or held and has opened the vision.

New Magazine.

For years there has been talk of an up to date Methodist magazine. Now the announcement is made that such a one is to be published in St. Louis. It will have two editors, one from the Church South and one from the Methodist Episcopal church.

Such a venture ten years ago would have been sure of a cordial greeting and had good prospect of success. Now the field has been so filled with cheap magazines with fine articles and profuse illustrations in the highest style of art that the attempt is more hazardous. It will need a large sum of money to insure it a place in the field already well filled.

Neighborly.

Canada needn't worry over the fact that she hasn't any army. Uncle Samuel will lend her one if any alien foe tries to invade her territory without her consent.—St. Louis Republic.

Return of the Raleigh.

"If only, Lord," the happy voices sing—"If only we have Thee, who falleth never, Nor life nor death nor any other thing Can hurt our joy forever and forever!"

If men could know how quickly pain is spent, What compensations heaven has in keeping, What home means, after earth's bleak banishment— If only they would smile instead of weeping!

Sing louder, radiant host, wake our dull ears Till, though the path be hard and the day lonely, We, too, shall answer through the mist of tears "If only we have Thee, Lord—have Thee only!" —Susan Coolidge.

FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

ATLANTA, April 27.—The ninth international (fourteenth national) Sunday school convention began at the Grand Opera House and will continue until Sunday, when special services and massmeetings will be held in the city churches. Attending the convention are many of the most prominent Sunday school workers in the United States and the world, and while there are only 1,500 authorized delegates the city is thronged with visitors. Special trains arrived at intervals.

The opera house was crowded when the second vice president, Hon. John M. Green of Atlanta, called the assemblage to order. Governor Allan D. Candler of Georgia welcomed the delegates to the state and former Governor William J. Northern extended the greetings on behalf of the churches and Sunday schools of Atlanta. Responses were made by the following gentlemen: For the north, R. A. Beard, Massachusetts; for Canada, Hon. S. H. Blake, Ontario; for the south, Hon. S. H. Blake, Tennessee; for the colored people, Prof. M. F. Collier, Florida.

The international Sunday school lesson committee decided to hold the next annual meeting at St. Louis, April 18 next. The field workers were in session at the First Methodist church. A committee of six was appointed to confer with a committee from the main body regarding the election of officers, and the remainder of the day was devoted to the reading of officers' reports.

NOT BELIEVED BY ROOKER.

Don't Think There Will Be American Representative In College of Cardinals.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Rev. Dr. Rooker, secretary of the papal legation in this city, was asked by a reporter regarding rumors that are in general circulation concerning the appointment of a representative of the United States in the college of cardinals at Rome. Dr. Rooker replied:

"I have lately read numerous rumors relating to various changes of this kind, but, so far as I know, there is absolutely no foundation for any of them. Twelve years ago there was considerable talk of having a representative of the United States in the college of cardinals, and I believe there was a greater possibility of it then than there is at present. I have no idea that any such action will be taken, but I know nothing of it. There are 20 vacancies in the college of cardinals, and the pope may fill many of them next month. But no one can anticipate what his action will be."

CHRISTIAN CHURCH CONGRESS.

Some of the Subjects Discussed at Second Day's Session.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—The second day's session of the national congress of the Disciples of Christ at the First Christian church was taken up with the reading of papers, followed by a general discussion of each. Rev. J. J. Haley, pastor of the First church of Cynthiana, Ky., discussed "The scope and significance of the cry 'Back to Christ' in modern religious thought."

A series of papers having for their general subject city evangelization were read by Revs. J. A. Lord, George F. Hall, E. E. Bagby, J. H. C. Smith, W. E. Ellis, B. L. Smith and L. H. McPherson, who touched on its different phases.

Catholic Propaganda Alumni Met.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The annual meeting of the American Alumni of the Propaganda at Rome was held here. The alumni association consists of the graduates of the Catholic college in Rome. The meeting was brief and was followed by a banquet. Later Monsignor Martelli, papal delegate, and Archbishop Ryan held a reception. Rev. Dr. James F. Laughlin, chancellor of the Philadelphia diocese, being the guest of honor. Dr. Laughlin will today be invested with the monsignorate at the cathedral.

He died from a complication of diseases and was sick for about two months. He was aged about 35 years. He was pastor two years at Chest Springs and was formerly at McKeesport.

FUNERAL SHIP ARRIVED.

Relatives Can Have Bodies Sent Wherever They Wish—Remains of 356 Brought Back.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Another shipload of the bodies of American soldiers who were killed or died in the Cuban and Porto Rican campaigns was brought into this harbor by the transport Crook. This time 356 coffins are piled in rows upon the vessel's decks. Ninety-eight of these bodies were taken up in Porto Rico, 12 at Guantanamo and 246 at Santiago. They have been identified as far as possible.

Those bodies which, in spite of the greatest care have remained unidentified, will be buried with their fellows in Arlington cemetery. The others will be forwarded by the government to relatives in any part of the country who desire to bury their dead elsewhere than in the national cemetery.

OUR CONSULAR SERVICE

President Angell Discusses Defects of America's System.

DEGES AGITATION FOR CHANGES.

Says the United States Needs Trained Men in the Orient—Political Pull should Be No Factor—Great Britain's Excellent Method—Future of China's Trade.

President James B. Angell of the University of Michigan the other night urged the members of the Bankers' club of Chicago to do something toward bettering the consular service of the United States. The betterment of this service was the subject of his address which followed the dinner at the Grand Pacific hotel. President Harper of the University of Chicago was called for by the members, but he declined to speak. Dr. Angell discussed both the good and the bad features of the consular service as it exists today, praising many of the men, but deprecating the system. He carried through his address a vein of humorous railery at the plans of office seeking diplomats and the appointments which resulted.

President Angell was introduced by Chairman Laren. He said in part:

"We are all rejoicing over the fact we have surpassed even Great Britain in our export trade and are able now to compete with foreign firms in foreign markets. We have awakened to the fact we are a Pacific as well as an Atlantic ocean state. No one knows what is going to happen in China, but it is certain in that country the era of the railway has come. Their absence has always been the great obstacle to trade with the interior, and their coming opens limitless possibilities in traffic in cotton, petroleum and lumber.

"Our commercial necessities in all foreign countries call for the best consular service we can devise. At present it is lacking, and it behooves such organizations as this to use pressure on congress to improve it. The good consul should be familiar at least with our business methods, have some knowledge of law and be acquainted with the language of the country. He should, besides, be a man of high character and breeding. Sometimes, by good luck, men of this character are appointed, but usually they are named with no regard to these qualifications. They are men who have carried wards in a close election or cast the deciding vote in a senatorial contest.

"There is another evil in that we do not allow them sufficient permanency in their locations. They need this above all else to be of the greatest service. We need many new provisions in the methods of supplying our consuls with American born interpreters. At present most of them know only the English language, and they are at the mercy of unscrupulous natives who use their connection with the consulate for the extortion of money.

"Great Britain's young men are thoroughly and wisely trained. The service gets the flower of the English youth because the appointment assures a career during good behavior. The result is that nation has the best service on the Chinese coast. It is all simple, but we don't do it. It would be efficacious even to offer young men this chance of a career, with the provision they pay their own expenses. There are hundreds of the brightest in the country who would jump at the chance, but all attempts to get congress to remedy this matter have been in vain.

"We have undertaken to administer extra territorial justice in the orient with this class of incompetent men. The statutes even are defective, and these appointees sitting in judgment are given power to supply the deficiencies themselves. Myself and several other ex-ministers once attempted to remedy the evil, but there was no politics in our plan, and we failed. There is not even a jail in China into which the condemned Americans we forbid the Chinese from taking may be held and punished.

"Looking on the events of the last year, I hope to see some speedy improvement. I cannot help hoping congress will now be awakened. But it never will be done unless bodies of men like you rouse yourselves first and make your opinions felt. The same thing is true of the administrative offices of these new countries if we are to govern them well. If we are going to undertake foreign administration, we must have trained men, not ward heelers."—Chicago Tribune.

THE SURGEON WAS PUZZLED

Dr. McGee Was a Good Worker, but She Didn't Know Pyjamas.

An army order directed to a woman is something novel in war department routine. One has been issued as follows:

"By direction of the acting secretary of war, Acting Assistant Surgeon Anita Newcomb McGee, United States army, will proceed from Washington to Fort Monroe, Va., on official business pertaining to the medical department and on completion of this duty will return to Washington, D. C. The travel enjoined is necessary for the public service. By command of Major General Miles, H. C. Corbin, adjutant general."

The only woman who received a commission in the United States army during the war with Spain was Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee. The doctor is a talented woman, daughter of Professor Newcomb and wife of Professor McGee, the ethnologist. When the war began an executive committee of the Daughters of the Revolution was formed to aid the war department in the matter of trained nurses and in the care of the wounded and sick. This committee

quickly manifested such intelligent zeal in the work that it was recognized by the war department, and Dr. McGee, the head of it, was given a commission. The committee was indefatigable and developed unexpected capacity for the duties it assumed.

There were some things, however, which Acting Assistant Surgeon McGee, smart as she was, had to learn. The war opened with a rush, and there were pressing demands. Up from Tampa one day came a message from the medical officer in charge of a division hospital telling what the department could do for the relief of the sick. The message mentioned lemons and a lot of things which would be acceptable to the invalid soldiers, including pyjamas. In due course the message was forwarded to Dr. McGee and her committee. Her promptness was a characteristic of the relief work. Orders were issued right and left for the desired supplies. All went well until one item on the list was reached. Dr. McGee came with wrinkled brow to her scientist husband and, holding out the message, asked in a perplexed tone, "Professor, what are pyjamas?"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat

HAYES' FUNERAL PICNIC.

A most novel funeral exercise was held at White Oak, 12 miles east of Petersburg, Ind., the other afternoon. Two years ago William Hayes died, leaving a large estate, a part being 1,000 acres of valuable land. During life he was very eccentric in his habits, one feature being that for the past 50 years he was never seen in public without being gayly decorated with pictures and ribbons and for years called himself "Pike County Bill" Hayes.

According to the provisions of his will, his body was to be taken up and placed in a vault two years from his death, which was the other day. In addition to this the trees in the park where the remains were placed were to be decorated with red, white and blue ribbons, five platforms for dancing were to be erected, two brass bands were to furnish the music, and the crowd present were to be feasted on five head of cattle, 20 head of sheep and a large number of hogs and chickens. Fifty kegs of beer were to be dispensed to the crowd, and for failure to carry out the above provisions of the will Pierce Hayes, his only child, was to be disinherited.

A crowd of 2,000 persons were in attendance, and the terms of the will were fully complied with.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Church Car For Central Asia.

With the object of spreading the doctrines of the orthodox church in central Asia, the British government has, according to The Turkestan Messenger, caused a special church car to be built for use on the Central Asiatic railway, which will shortly be open for regular traffic as far east as Andijan. A chaplain will travel in charge of the car, which will be detached from the trains and again attached, according to the requirements of the towns on the line of the railway. It will shortly be formally consecrated at Tashkend.—Cor. London Post.

HANGING AS A FINE ART.

Expert Who Executed Durrant Gives Testimony in a Trial.

Hanging as a fine art was the theme of a general discussion that amused and instructed the court and jury in the Brandes trial at Oakland. Amos Lunt and B. S. Brown, a brace of as mild mannered men as ever swung a fellow being into eternity, gave the dissertation on the correct thing in the way of shooting a victim through the gallows' trap.

They were called by the defense to tell what they knew about the condition of the neck of a corpse after it had been suspended at the end of a rope for a couple of hours. But when that question was answered the gentle calling of a public executioner was exploited from various points of view.

B. S. Brown, who is a guard in San Quentin prison, came into prominence as the man who sent Durrant into another world. He has assisted in three executions during his time and knows a thing or two about the necks of his fellow men.

"Does a frothing at the mouth always accompany hanging?" asked Attorney Bennett.

"Not always," replied Brown.

"What happened in the case of Durrant?"

"Oh, he frothed at the mouth all right!"

"How long did it take Durrant's features to sink into repose after death?"

"Oh, about four hours!"

"How long was he hanging?"

During this glib testimony Brandes sat like a man in a trance. It was a peculiar situation, that of a man on trial on a charge of murder facing the hangman.

Amos Lunt, who until a short time ago was a guard at the San Quentin prison, took the stand. He apparently takes a hanging as a joke.

"How thick is the rope used at executions?" was asked.

"Well, at first it is about an inch in diameter, but when it is ready for the victim it is about seven-eighths of an inch. You see, we stretch and harden it before we attach it to the gallows. A thin neck is the easiest to break by hanging. It is hard to hang a man with a short, fat neck and make a neat job of it."

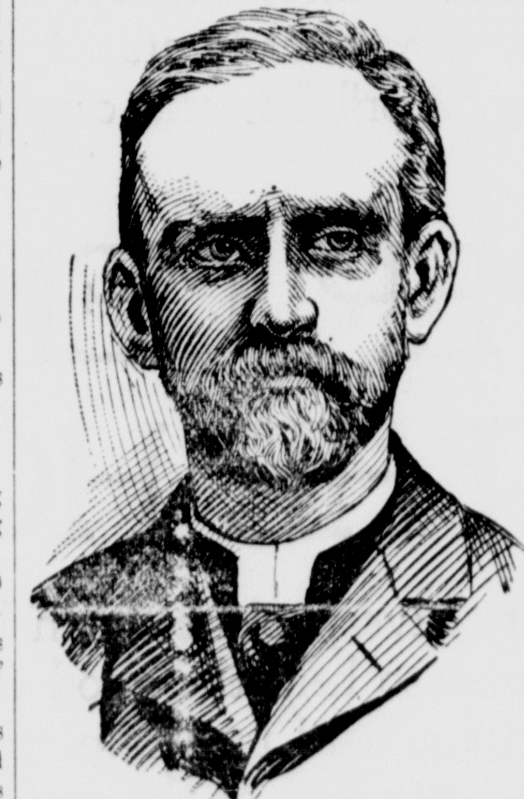

"How do you gauge the distance of the drop?" asked Assistant District Attorney Melville.

"Well, it all depends on the height of the victim. Now, you are a big man, 6 feet in height, and weigh over 200 pounds. If I was hanging you, I would give you about a 5 foot 8 drop."

Every one laughed except Brandes.—San Francisco Call.

Is working for the best!

Could we but kneel and cast our load,
E'en while we pray, upon our God,
Then rise with lightened cheer,
Sure that our Father, who is nigh
To hear the ravens when they cry,
Will His own children hear?

Lord, make these faithless hearts of ours
Such lessons learn from birds and flowers;
Make them from self to cease;
Leave all things to a Father's will
And, on His mercy leaning still,
Find the eternal peace.

The woman who is weak, nervous, tired and exhausted; who has a poor and variable appetite and no strength or nerve; who suffers from pains and aches, dragging down and burning sensations; and who recognizes, herself, that she has become irritable, cross, blue and despondent, is in almost every case suffering from weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity.

Thousands of women suffer in this way and do not recognize the cause, or if they do understand their condition, neglect it rather than submit to the obnoxious examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the average physician. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for women who suffer in this way. It does away with the necessity for these trying ordeals, and may be used in the privacy of the home. It acts directly on the delicate organs concerned, and makes them strong, vigorous and healthy. It banishes the discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It transforms weak, nervous, petulant invalids into happy wives and mothers. Thousands of women have testified, over their own signatures, to this fact. The "Favorite Prescription" may be procured from any good medicine dealer. Any woman who will write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., may have the advice of an eminent and skillful specialist without charge.

Mrs. Cora M. McLaurin, of Rockport, Copiah Co., Miss., writes: "I had displacement and inflammation of the uterus. I was under the treatment of our family physician for a long time, but received no benefit. I had falling of internal organs with ulceration and enlargement. I commenced using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Pleasant Pellets' and 'Extract of Smart-Weed.' From the first day I began to improve, and in a short time I was able to do all my household work. If it had not been for your medicines I would have been dead long ago."

I thought it would wear off, but as it did not, but got worse, I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and took them. The result was that the pain soon left me and I was all right again."

—THE— Boston Store News.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN WEEKS we are without a mechanic in the store. The carpenters, the tanners, the painters, the plumbers, the electricians and the paper hangers have finished their work and gone, leaving our storeroom improved an hundred fold. This is very good as far as it goes, but after all is not the most important item in successful retail merchandising. The paramount essential to a successful and ever expanding dry goods business is large and choice assortment of goods at the right prices. While the embellishment of the store was going on, those in charge of the different departments were not idle, but gathering together the very best merchandise in the market at the lowest possible prices, until today we can show you a stock of drygoods that we conscientiously believe is a credit to East Liverpool as well as to The Boston Store. Lest you might think this a prejudiced opinion, we will give you an opportunity of judging for yourself of its correctness, and right here and now extend to you a hearty invitation to come and see, not only the store improvements, but examine and price (whether you buy or not) our stock of spring drygoods.

Friday, April 28, 1899, Opening and Souvenir Day, You Are Invited.

Friday will be the formal opening day of the season at this store, and the beginning also of a Special One Week's Sale of the choicest kind of spring merchandise. Every department will add its quota to this grand display and sale of spring goods. Special drives all over the store. We want you to come Friday and inspect the offerings for yourself. You will not be importuned to buy. However, should you have any needs, we shall be pleased to supply them.

will be presented to each visitor Friday. These will be given out in the Drapery and Lace Curtain Room. As already stated, this special sale will last for one week, beginning Friday morning, April 28, and closing Thursday evening, May 4. Souvenirs on Friday only.

FIVE PER CENT TO THE HOSPITAL FUND.

We believe East Liverpool needs an hospital. We believe she will have one in the near future. We wish to help the good project along, and encourage the ladies and gentlemen who are working hard to attain this laudable end. Therefore, we will subscribe to the hospital fund 5 per cent of the total cash sales for the week beginning Friday morning, April 28, and ending Thursday evening, May 4. In other words, of every dollar spent with us during the week mentioned the hospital fund gets 5c. This is not offered as a plea for you to buy our drygoods---we sell them solely on their merits, and unless the goods are cheaper or as cheap as you can buy elsewhere, our candid advice to you is don't buy them---but everything else being equal, help the hospital fund along. If you prefer subscribing directly in money you can be accommodated. A collection box in our cloak room will accord you that privilege any day during this sale. Now in conclusion, don't forget to come and get your souvenir Friday. If you don't come, we will feel slighted.
